Few changes in county school system

The cry across the province is "Back to the Basics" in our educational system, at least among a good many parents, teachers and administrators.

But according to the directors of both boards of education, few changes are planned in Simcoe County schools for the 1975-76 academic year. Jack Ramsay, director of the SCBE, said Monday there "will be no major changes" in teaching techniques, but added there will be a "continuing emphasis on a testing program begun a year ago" in some schools.

Students are tested for facility with English, Mathematics and other basics. Remedial work, where necessary, is done on an individual, rather than a school basis.

And as far as Frank Macdonald, head of the Simcoe County Roman Catholic Separate School Board, is concerned, there will be no change "because we've always stayed with the basics..."

PSS head at ease up north

Things will be basically the same at Penetanguishene Secondary School when to teachers and students return from their summer holidays.

In a telephone interview from a summer cottage at Sundridge (40 miles south of North Bay) PSS Principal Don Beatty pronounced himself ready to return to work. "I had a real good vacation. I'm looking forward to it (school)" he said.

The enrolment is expected to be around 910 to 915 down slightly from last year's 940 students. Five new teachers have been hired and the grade nine French mathematics program has been extended to grade 10.

Lazy days are ending

Lazy days on the beach will be coming to an end for Simcoe County students as they head back to school two weeks from now. Sand pails, beach mattresses and other accessories will be traded in for the traditional class room supplies - books, rulers, pencils and pens. Staff photo
