The Midland post office has had to advise its sorters to sort mail according to the address shown on the envelope, states a press release from the postmaster.

Mail is going to be processed in a directory or look-up service if it can't be delivered as addressed. "This is going to have drastic results with local mail addressed to old street numbers and mail addressed to holders of post office lock boxes who don't have their box numbers as part of the address", the release states.

No look-up service will be provided to mail from addresses in Midland for local delivery. And because of the high volume of incorrectly or insufficiently addressed mail received for delivery at the Midland post office, "only first class mail and parcels will receive a full directory service and address correction."

This will be done on a first in first out basis.

According to Postmaster Fred Grigg, "this action has become necessary in order that we can assure proper service to customers whose mail is properly addressed but who are falling victim to doubts of the sorters who don't know any more what address is right and what is wrong. Problems and corrective action will be handled as they are received and we will do what we can to minimize the impact of this policy."

The release notes that people in Port McNicoll will have to suffer some inconvenience with the changed box lobby hours. After the third wastebasket fire, it was decided that the lobby had to be locked before there were more serious consequences from the vandalism that the post office has been experiencing. Notices were posted advising the local residents that the lock box lobby would be locked at 7:30 p.m.

Census reps named

Census commissioners for the area were recently announced by Statistics Canada regional director Mr. A.G. Metcalfe.

Mrs. Betty Anne Ladouceur of Port McNicoll, Mrs. Frances St. Amant of Penetanguishene, and Mr. Gilbert Robillard of Penetanguishene, are among those named.

These commissioners are currently recruiting census representatives for the districts. Persons interested in serving in this capacity during the May-June period of enumeration should contact the commissioners in their own area.

Toronto Regional office representative for Simcoe North and Parry-Sound Muskoka has established his office at 6 West St. North in Orillia.

An old

Midlanders will be treated to an old-fashioned band concert in Little Lake Park on Saturday, June 19.

Sponsored by the Simcoe County Recreational Association for the Institutionalized Senior Citizens, the event will feature a bake table, crafts for sale, and many added attractions for young and old.

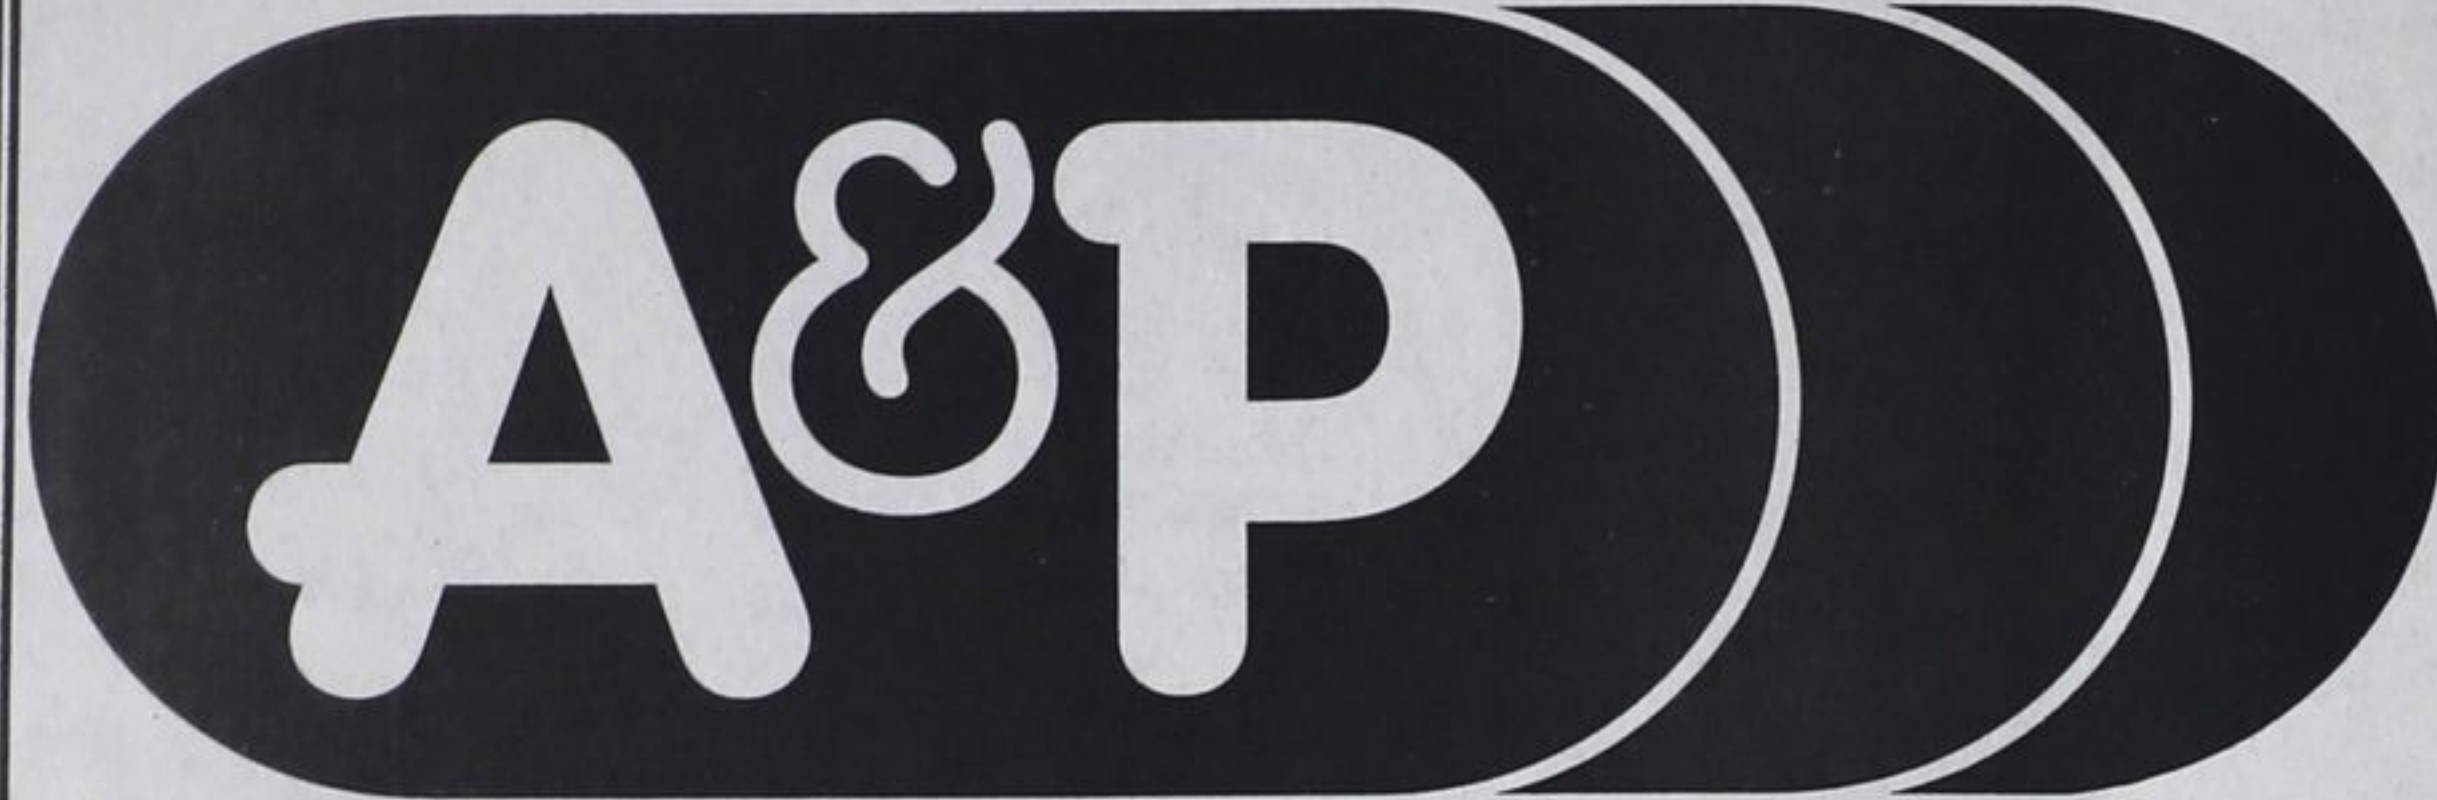

There will be no entrance fee, but a silver collection will be taken in order to support the work of the association.

Raffle tickets on a special draw for a hand hooked rug are available.

If anyone is interested in helping out by selling raffle tickets or providing baked goods, convenor Mary M. Gibson at 526-9732 would like to hear from you.
