Los Angeles based sisters visit area

Forty-eight Sisters of the Society Devoted to the Sacred Heart visited the area last Friday.

The group, based in Los Angeles, had attended the 41st Eucharistic Congress in Philadelphia last week.

They came to Canada primarily to visit Toronto where the founding sisters of the order first arrived in North America 25 years ago from their native Hungary, but they came up to the Midland-Penetanguishene area to visit the Martyr's Shrine.

During their visit, they came to Penetanguishene to take a cruise on the M.S. David Richard Friday afternoon, and to have dinner at the Knights of Columbus hall.

The group made the trip from Los Angeles to Philadelphia through the southern United States on a bus provided by an anonymous donor, using fuel provided free by the Union Oil company of California. After their brief visit to Canada, they will return to Los Angeles via the northern states, stopping at Chicago, Minneapolis, Rapid City, Yellowstone National Park, Idaho Falls, Salt Lake City and Las Vegas.

The order was founded in war-torn Kassa, Hungary, in 1940 by Sister Jda Peterfy, who is now the Superior General. Because of persecution by Nazis and communists, the women, whose purpose was and is to go out among the people and teach religion, chose to wear simple dresses rather than the traditional nun's habit.

When they decided to leave Europe and come to Toronto in 1950 they chose to retain their style of dress because they felt they would be better able to communicate with people without the barrier of the traditional habit.

While in Toronto they were aided in getting settled by Father Leo Austin, who arranged for their trip to the Shrine, last week, and who has been accompanying them on the Canadian portion of their trip.

In 1956 they moved to Los Angeles where they established their community.

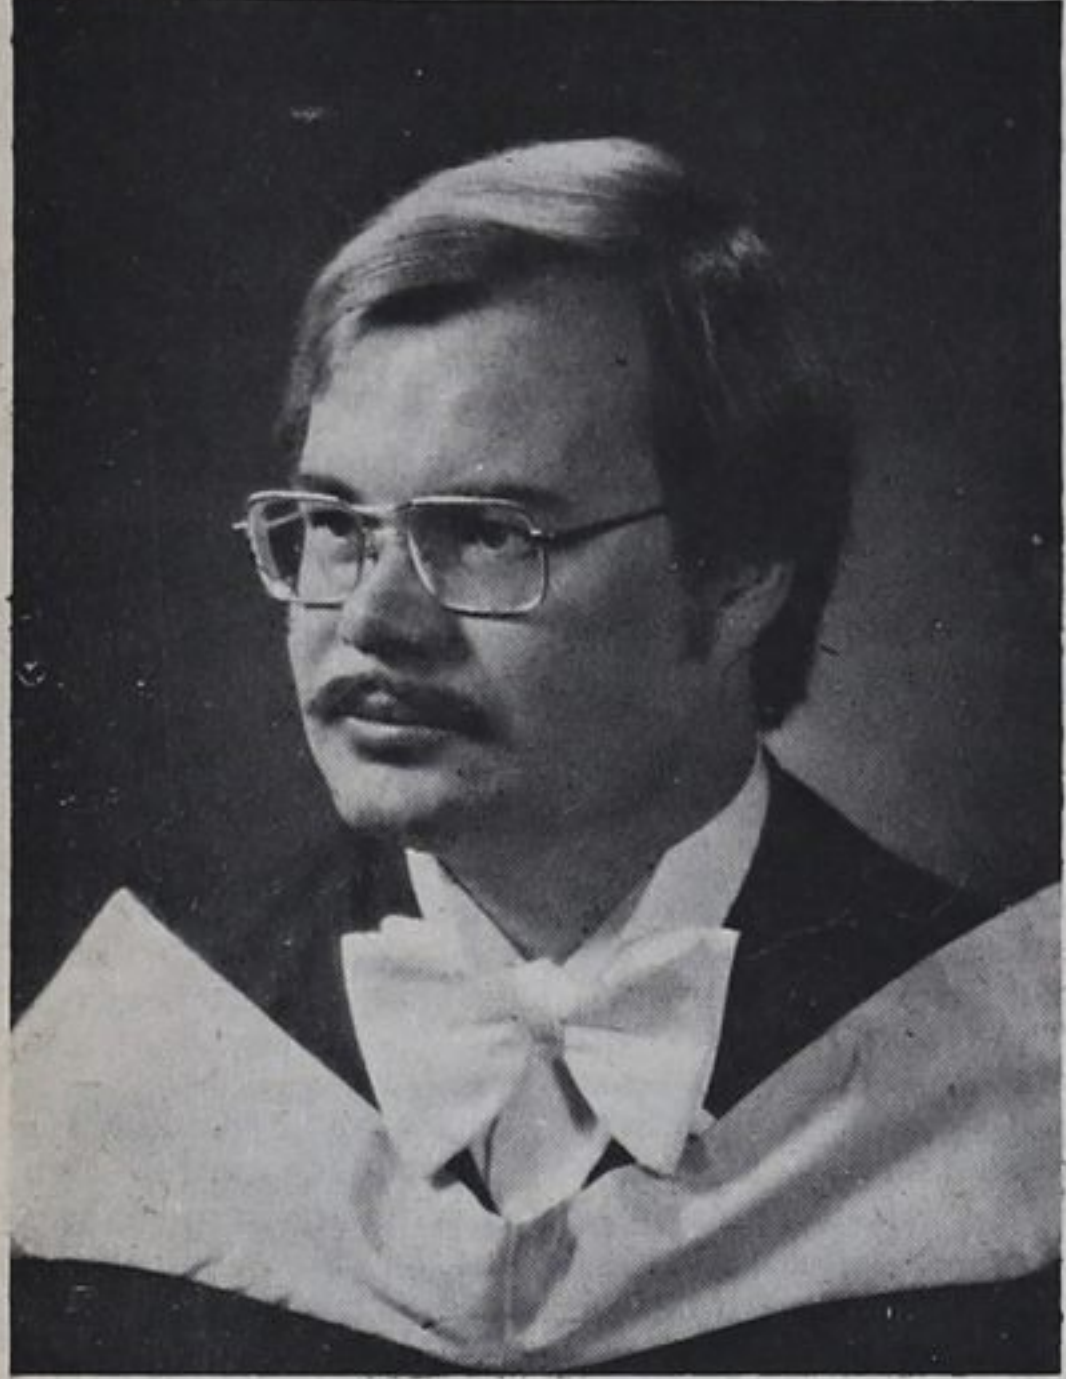

They crossed into Canada on their current trip at Niagara Falls last Wednesday. Since then they have visited Hamilton and Oshawa, as well as Midland, Penetanguishene and Toronto. Saturday they went sight-seeing in Toronto, and Sunday they attended a reception at St. Stephen's Church on Spadina in Toronto.

Although a large number of the sisters are from California there is at least one originally from Canada and a number from places in Europe and Asia.
