

Checking the plans

President of the Huronia Association for the Mentally Retarded Claude Buck took a long look at architects' drawings for the new facility for the Adult Rehabilitation Centre (ARC) in Midland last week. Construction on the new complex should begin in early October, with occupancy set for "before the snow flies". A public campaign for funds for the new facility "went over the top" and organizers gathered last week to study the plans and celebrate. Buck heaped praise on volunteers and campaign officials "without whose help the new complex would still be a dream".

Wildlife museum an interesting inexpensive excursion

by E. Lorraine Orr

An interesting and inexpensive excursion for children and adults is a visit to the Wildlife Museum on Hwy. No. 69

(103) just north of Waubaushene. On display in a natural setting can be found a family of raccoons or red foxes as well as beavers. A pheasant flaunts his colorful tail while overhead, ducks and Canadian geese are shown in flight. Blue Jays, crows and owls to name a few of the birds are seen among the trees.

A mother doe is seen lying in a wooded clearing with her new born fawns sleeping close by.

A ferocious grizzly bear stands erect prepared for attack, while a large and woolly head of a buffalo looks down from the wall.

These animals are not deliberately killed for these displays but have been donated to the Museum by the Dept. of Hwys and Lands and Forests.

The gift shop and wildlife display are owned by Mr. and Mrs.

Deiter Murkenheim of Parry Sound.

The manageress, Mrs. Rosetta Spar, greets visitors from all over the world and invites them to sign the guest scroll.

The display is open from April 1st to November 15.
