

Man convicted on five charges gets 210 days

A 20-year-old Penetanguishene man was convicted in provincial court in Penetanguishene last Thursday, on five charges, and sentenced to a total of 210 days in jail. Ronald Jolie was charged with theft over $200, public mischief causing damage, impaired driving, and driving while under suspension. Three of the charges were laid on April 21, when Jolie was stopped by police while driving south on Highway 27. The officer noticed signs of impairment, and a subsequent breathalyzer test yielded a reading of .170. Meanwhile, a check on his license showed it was under suspension, and a check on the automobile showed it had been taken from in front of the Commodore Hotel in Penetanguishene without the permission of the owner, Jolie's brother-in-law.

The charge of theft under $200 arose out of an incident which occurred on June 8th when a female taxi driver picked up Jolie and took him to Oro, where he stole her wallet containing $14. The public mischief charge was laid when Jolie pulled the door of the Commodore Hotel about six inches from its frame, at 1:45 a.m. on June 11. The cost of repairing the door was $70. Jolie's attorney told Provincial Judge Len Montgomery that he had a problem with alcohol, and had had the problem since he was about 15 years old. The attorney told Montgomery that his client realized he would probably have to go to jail as a result of the convictions, but asked whether he might be sent to the Ontario Correctional Institute in Brampton, where he could get treatment for his problem.

Judge Montgomery sentenced Jolie to 15 days in jail on the impaired driving conviction, 15 days on the driving while suspended charge, 100 days on the charge of theft over $200, 50 days for theft under $200, and 30 days on the public mischief charge. All the sentences will be served consecutively. Judge Montgomery ordered that the sentences be served at the Ontario Correctional Institute, with the strong recommendation that Jolie get treatment for his alcohol problem while in jail.

Also included in the sentence were the conditions that Jolie make restitution in the amount of $70 to the Commodore Hotel, and in the amount of $14 to the taxi driver he robbed. Jolie will be on probation for 12 months after his jail term is completed.

Discharge
Sixteen-year-old Robert Nadler of Toronto was given a conditional discharge Thursday in provincial court after being convicted last month of causing wilful damage. Nadler, a student at Silverthorn Collegiate in Etobicoke, was charged earlier this summer after he was caught with a group of his friends on a Tiny Township beach, burning a picnic table. Although all the boys were present while the table was being burned, Nadler admitted it was his idea, and took responsibility for the incident. Judge Montgomery gave him the discharge with a caution to be of good behaviour for six months, and an order to pay $50 restitution to Tiny Township within two months.

Probation breach
A 20-year-old Toronto man was sentenced in court Thursday to 30 days in jail on a charge of breach of probation. Paul Baglieri was convicted on January 8th of theft over $200 and put on probation for a period of 12 months. On April 12th, he was convicted of impaired driving in provincial court in Midland. The breach of probation charge was laid because any criminal conviction, while on probation, is considered a breach.

Before sentencing, Baglieri's mother took the witness stand to testify that he had stopped seeing some of his friends, who she felt were having a bad influence on him, and that he had improved his behaviour and stopped drinking since his impaired driving conviction. Since Baglieri has a job as a mechanical engineer at the Inn-on-the-Park, Judge Montgomery ordered that the sentence be served on weekends to allow him to maintain his employment.

Theft
An 18-year-old Orillia man was given a conditional discharge in provincial court Thursday, after pleading guilty to a charge of theft under $200. Fernand Assance, originally from Christian Island, was charged after he took $95 from two purses in a house in Midland, where he was a guest. His attorney told the court that Assance, who now attends school in Orillia, had been living in the house where the theft occurred, while he attended school in Midland for a brief period of time. On July 15, when the theft occurred, he had returned to Midland for a visit. Judge Montgomery ordered that Assance be of good behaviour for a period of 12 months, and that he make restitution within 11 months.

Dismissed
A charge of driving with excess alcohol in his blood, laid against 37-year-old Darryl Sly of Collingwood, was dropped in provincial court Thursday, following a rather unusual trial, which came to a halt because the main witness for the defense was not present. The prosecution witness, Constable Everett Hicks of the Midland detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, told the court he had been driving northbound on Highway 27, coming out of Weybridge at 11:35 p.m. on June 19, when he saw a vehicle going southbound at a high rate of speed. He turned around and began following the vehicle, and caught up with it when it came up behind a car pulling a trailer. Hicks said he tried to get the attention of the vehicle's driver by flashing his lights, but was unsuccessful. He said the vehicle then passed the car and trailer, and Hicks did the same. He clocked the vehicle at 60 miles per hour, and then it slowed down to 50, although it did not pull over. Hicks radioed ahead to the Elmvalle detachment to have them set up a roadblock, but as the two cars went through Waverley, the vehicle finally pulled over. Hicks said the driver, who he identified as Sly, smelled of intoxicant, so he took him to the cruiser and read him the standard breath demand. Back at the detachment, Hicks said, Sly performed quite well on all the standard physical tests for impairment, and then took the breathalyzer test with a resulting reading of .180.

Under cross-examination, Hicks admitted that Sly's driving and performance on the physical tests did not necessarily indicate impairment, and he said Sly had complained at the time of breathalyzer test that one of the lights on the machine was not working properly. When Sly's attorney asked why the breathalyzer operator, Constable Eric Weise, had not been brought to the court as a crown witness, he was told Weise was at home sleeping as he was on night shift.

A short recess was held during which the crown attorney called Weise and discovered that a light on the breathalyzer had not been working at the time of the incident, and that the reading could possibly have been incorrect. When court resumed, the crown attorney asked that he be allowed to drop the charge.

30 days in jail
A Penetanguishene man was sentenced to 30 days in jail after pleading guilty in provincial court Monday to a charge of driving while his licence was under suspension. This was the third conviction on this kind of offence for 44-year-old Yves Kirouac of Penetanguishene. Kirouac was charged on July 5 in Midland after being stopped by the Midland police on 4th Street. Judge L.T. Montgomery said he felt he had no other choice but to sentence Kirouac to a short period of incarceration.

"You have shown disregard for this law on three different occasions," he said. Kirouac will serve his 30 days on an intermittent basis.

We're out $500 now...

We're Ontario government employees, members of the Ontario Public Service Employees Union. Thanks to Pierre Trudeau and William Davis we are out by about $500 a year. That's how much the AIB and the Davis Government rolled back our salary increases. Yet impartial arbitration boards judged that we were entitled to those salaries. Ontario government employees know how well the AIB works - it cost each one of us about $500. And then Mr. Trudeau spends an additional $1-million to tell everyone that the cost of fighting inflation is high. Sure it is. Just ask Marathon Realty. That company's profits increased by 50.2 per cent during the first half of 1976. Or take Victoria & Grey Trust, for instance. It enjoyed increased profits of 33 per cent in the first nine months of controls. As a direct result of government policy, gasoline and fuel oil prices increased five cents a gallon on September 1. This move will add from one to 1.5 points to the consumer price index. It will also pump millions of dollars into the coffers of multi-national oil companies. Yes, we all know what it costs to fight inflation. Some of us know better than others. The Ontario Public Service Employees Union has endorsed the October 14 Day of Protest. This is a day for all Canadian workers to voice and show their opposition to wage controls. OPSEU members will be asked by a secret ballot vote to lend their support to the October 14 protest. These votes will be held at area union meetings across Ontario. If you are an OPSEU member, you can hear all the facts about controls and your wages. You can vote to take part in the October 14 protest at:

Penetang Legion Hall
Monday, October 4th.
11:30 a.m. And 7 p.m.

... We should be out
October 14th!
