Rod Ferguson states that the Big Brothers are badly in need of more men and he hopes that some area boys will get a present that will last all year.

The thorny, weed-grown road we travel day by day is smoothed and cleaned at Christmastime. The bruised and bleeding feet are washed and healed. And man sends out a helping hand To lift the heavy cross from off the back of him Who walks beside him... That cross that all men bear along the road of life.

Oh wondrous, joyous day That turns the twisted, hard, and narrow soul within To something beautiful, divine, and good, And makes of each of us A being like the angels!

This above all else is Christmas then: The spirit of the Christ within us, That divine breath that makes the cold heart warm And leads the world-choir of men To sing in mighty unison, "Peace on earth, good will to men."

by Norbert R. Rodeman.

Merry Christmas from the Staff of Contact, Mary Gibson, Marion Reed and Barbara Emerson.
