

That one looks like a bargain

The Anglican Church Women's garage sale at St. James Church Hall had customers lined up half an hour before it was scheduled to open. Rita Morin surveyed the coffee pots and found one to suit her for 10 cents. The money of the sale will be used to paint the exterior of the church. Staff photo

Line-up for garage sale

Going to garage sales is a popular thing to do on a fine Saturday morning and the sale at St. James Church Hall was no exception.

People were lined up before 10 o'clock on Saturday morning and the sale was not supposed to open until 10:30 a.m. A large part of the popularity was due to the hard work of the Anglican Church Women who organized the sale. Arranging donations, picking them up and getting everything sorted and priced was no small feat.

Nellie Grigg, president of the Anglican Church Women, says small items, books and baked goods were the best sellers but the clothing also sold fairly well. A kitchen table and a TV were also among the merchandise and they were quickly sold.

The sales will be used in getting a new paint job on the outside of the church which is estimated to cost $1,600. "It just has to be done this year," said

Grigg. "We've been trying for two years now."

She then cast a wistful eye up to the ceiling of the hall. "We need a new roof here too. We never seem to have more than we need."

Tiny Township man fined $200 on alcohol charge

A 32-year-old Tiny Township man was ordered to pay a fine of $200, after he pleaded guilty in provincial court in Penetanguishene last Thursday morning to a charge of excess alcohol.

In provincial court

Paul Laurin was charged in provincial court on May 6, after a police officer noticed him driving erratically. The court was told a police officer in a parked cruiser noticed a blue van turn left onto Robert Street from Main. The vehicle crossed the centre line, and as the officer in the cruiser began following it, he saw it weave from side to side. Upon stopping the van, he noticed that the driver, Laurin, had a smell of alcohol on his breath.

She'll bring down budget

She will stay on council only long enough to bring down the 1977 budget. "I don't want to leave a job undone," she said. "I have to do a job well or I don't want any part of it."

"I'm just heart-sick. It's just like giving up a part of my life," she said. Rogers will, however, continue to act as chairman of the Huronia Historical Council, a position she was appointed to for a period of three years by the premier of the province.

She also hopes she will be able to continue to serve the town to the best of her abilities in any capacity her health will allow.

In the meantime, she will continue to work on the budget, which should work. I tried to ignore it, hoping it would go away, but it didn't."

"It's the most difficult decision I've ever had to make," she said. "Municipal politics has been my whole life. To give it up will be to kill part of me."

guilty to the charge, laid on April 10 of this year. The court was told two Ontario Provincial Police constables on patrol at about 2:10 that morning had seen a car parked along Concession 4 of Tay Township. As they approached the vehicle, they saw the passenger door open, and something come flying out. They searched the driver of the car, Vipond, and found a plastic bag containing the half ounce of marijuana in his breast pocket.

Since Vipond had a criminal record, the judge decided a discharge would not be the proper disposition, and assessed the $150 fine, or 30 days in jail.

Rory Byng was charged on March 25 at about 5:10 p.m. The court was told an Ontario Provincial Police constable had spotted Byng on Elm Street in Victoria Harbour, and had searched his person in connection with the investigation of an unrelated complaint. The officer found half an ounce of marijuana, and five marijuana cigarettes.

The judge ordered the conditional discharge, and put Byng on probation for a period of nine months.

42nd ANNIVERSARY OF WALKER'S ELECTRIC

On May 23, 1935 Edwin & Isabel Walker and year old son Kenneth arrived in Midland. Edwin being an electrician with 8 years experience, started Walker's Electric doing Cottage and Farm wiring. He had four employees that first year and gradually increased as years went by.

The expertise of Edwin Walker and crew was quickly recognized by Canada Steamship line officials. Walker's were often called on to service the electrical systems on freighters when in Midland port. During winters Walker's were often busy rewiring ships.

As the years went by Gordon came into being, followed by Alan and David. As these boys grew and were educated in Midland, and worked with their Dad, they went through the Electrical Apprenticeship and became Master Electricians. Kenneth and Alan were away for a few years working on large industrial and commercial projects. When Midland grew and obtained additional industry there was sufficient requirements, these boys came back to the family, increasing it's capacity both in manpower and most important in expertise to install and service the complicated electrical apparatus in modern industry.

Quite a number of young Midland boys have served their apprenticeship with Walker's Electric.

Walker's have not only expanded with manpower but also have kept getting tools and test equipment to efficiently do more work per man hour than otherwise possible. Walker's Electric also has kept up to date with a well stocked shop and modern trucks, radio dispatched, so that when you call on Walker's for Electrical work or Service you get not just an Electrician but one fully equipped, both in knowledge and tools in a modern truck with the necessary materials, and backed up by the Walker 50 years experience.
