Local actors star as squaws, braves

CBC pilot shot at Huron Village

The CBC came to town on the weekend, complete with miles of cords, cumbersome cameras, a flurry of production, make-up, script and prop people - and at least one dazzling actress to draw gawker's attentions away from the beehive of activity (and seeming disorganization) which accompanies mobile filming ventures.

Midland's own Huron Indian Village was the site for the shooting for a pilot situation comedy set in the days when Huronia was being settled.

It was a rare opportunity to catch an inside glimpse of the intensity of a television production.

Seeing what goes on behind the scenes during a filming session reveals hard work, patience and stamina among the people involved. Coordinating film, sound, acting, makeup, set decoration, special effects and coping with the many idiosyncrasies of such a venture is, to say the least, a complicated business.

The special effects department was been heavily taxed in this production. They've had to locate or create everything from Hudson Bay blankets, beaver pelts, tee-pees, and the interior of trading posts to large paper pumpkins which explode nicely when used as ammunition.

There was little of the glamour we normally associate with the finished product - only hours of patient toiling. One section of the play took two hours to get down pat, the finished product will likely last only a few minutes.

The situation comedy is set in early pioneer times when the French and English came to settle in the area. According to the script, a conflict between natives and settlers over the hunting rights of the Blue Duck resulted in the capture of one settler. His fate was death by burning at the stake or marriage to one of the Indian squaws for a time the captive thought the latter was his best way out.

But as luck would have it, out sauntered Gloria, the ravishing blonde princess pictured on our front page. Small wonder that it was all the captive could do to contain himself.

A number of local people provided their talents for the production, mostly as 'extras'. Ray Holt, Bynn Davies, Chris Thomson, Michele Hackstetter, Lena King, Carol Elson, and Shirley Harvey played squaws and 'braves' in the CBC production.

There's no doubt that newcomers to the film scene enjoyed every minute of it, despite long, often tedious shooting. Here's hoping the CBC pilot will turn into a series and the film crews will be back for more.

Commission investigating use of aluminum wiring welcomes public briefs

Dr. J. Tuzo Wilson, C.C., Ph.D., P.Eng., recently appointed Commissioner of a Provincial inquiry concerning the use of aluminum wiring in Ontario homes, announced today that the Commission's first of a number of public hearings took place on Monday, June 6th at 10 a.m. at the Auditorium, Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, 252 Bloor St. West, Toronto.

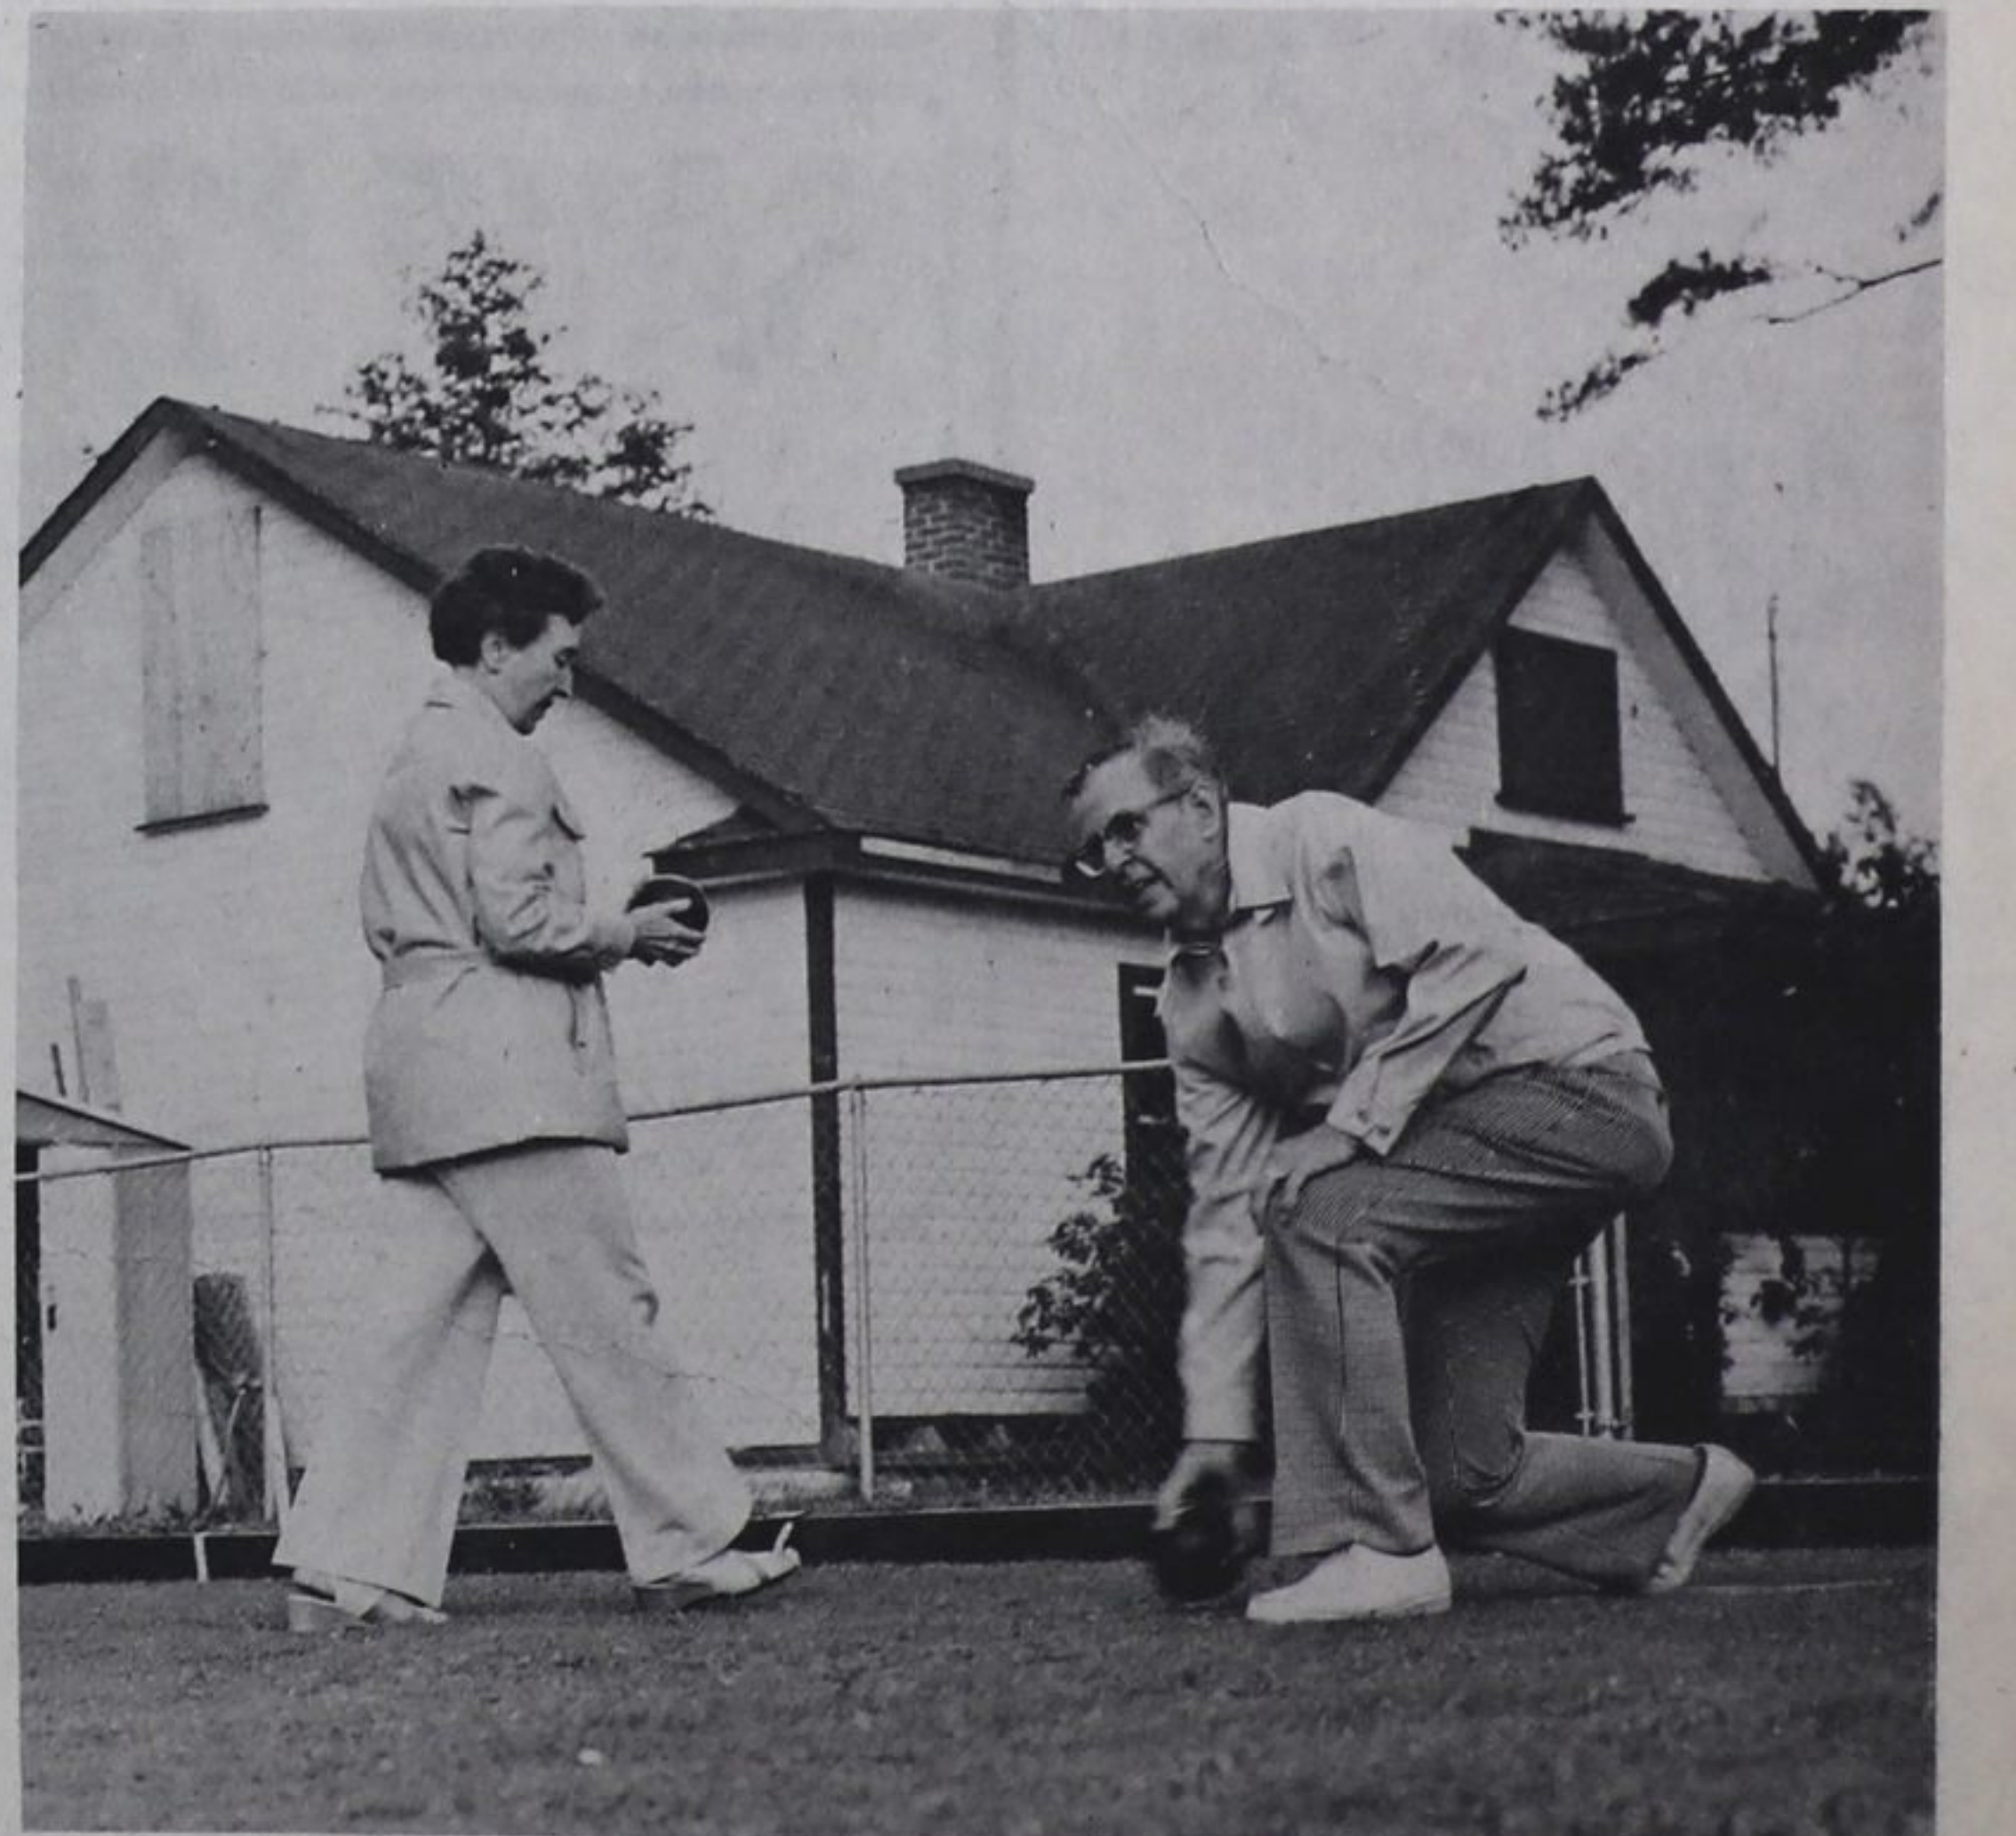

Dr. Wilson, who was appointed Commissioner of the inquiry by an Order-in-Council in April of this year, has been on the staff of the Department of Physics, U. of T. for the past years and is an internationally known scientist. Since 1974 he has been Director-General of the Ontario Science Centre.

Two Technical Advisors to the Commission are Professors George B. Craig, Ph.D., P. Eng., and K.D. Srivastava, Ph.D., P. Eng.

Professor Craig graduated from the University of Toronto following service in World War II. After working with the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources in Ottawa he returned to Toronto to become Professor of Metallurgy and Chairman of the Centre for the Study of Materials. Professor Srivastava was born in Kanpur, India and received his doctorate in engineering at the University of Glasgow. He worked at the Rutherford High Energy Laboratory of the Science Research Council in England until 1966 when he came to the University of Waterloo where he is Chairman of the department of Electrical Engineering. Counsel for the Commission is William J. Anderson, Q.C.

Those wishing to present briefs at hearings, should notify, in writing, Mr. D.V. Fowke, F.M.C., Secretary of the Commission at Hickling-Johnston Ltd., 10th floor, 415 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario M5B 2E7.

CONTROL SEVERE BLEEDING

● Apply hand pressure to the bleeding part, over a dressing if available. If one dressing becomes bloodsoaked, don't remove it - place another over it. ● Lie the casualty down and elevate the injured part above the level of the heart. Cover dressing with a pad of soft material and hold dressing and pad in position with a firm bandage. ● If there is a foreign object embedded in the wound, don't remove it. Removal may cause more serious bleeding. Loosely cover the object with a light cloth to prevent infection then apply pressure around the object.

MINOR BURNS AND SCALDS

● Lessen the spread of heat in the tissue and relieve pain by immersing the burned area in a basin of cold water. ● If a sink or basin is not available apply cloths soaked in cold water. ● Don't place a burn under extreme water pressure as that pressure may damage the tissues further. ● Periodically add ice to the cloths or cold water. ● This process should be continued as long as there is pain. ● Do not apply butter, ointments or oil dressings. ● Cover the area with a clean cloth and seek immediate medical attention.

FIRST AID TIP

FRACTURES

● If a casualty has suffered a fractured limb, support the injured part once to prevent further damage. ● Immobilize the injured part by securing it to a sound part of the body. ● Splints and bandages should be used if medical aid is not readily available. ● Bandages should be placed tightly enough to prevent movement but not so tightly as to cut off the circulation. ● Immobilize the joints above and below the fracture. ● Immediately seek medical aid.
