

Book reports

The Township of Tiny Library Board has sponsored a Book Report Contest for all children in the area in Grades 3 to 8 in order to promote children's literature and encourage good reading habits among our young people. The contest ran from April 15th, to May 15th, 1977 and was advertised through the schools and the three local libraries being Penetanguishene, Midland and Elmvalle. The winners are to be rewarded with a prize of $5.00 each and the cheques will be going out to them in the mail shortly. This newspaper has agreed to publish a number of the winning entries over the next few weeks and we trust the readers and interested parties will continue to read this column. This week we have the following book reports.

Water Life

Illustrator Nemo
The book was about Water animals like the swans and beavers, wild geese and a lot more.
Did you know that if the baby swans are tired or scared the mother will carry them on her back? If an enemy is near she will hiss at them for a warning. Their wings spread almost eleven feet. They also have beautiful wings.

The Ginger Bread Man

Illustrator Elfrieda
What this book is about
This story is about a lady who wanted to make something special for her husband after dinner. She kept opening the oven to see if the Ginger Bread Man was ready. So that after supper her husband could eat it.

Why This Book is Interesting
This book is interesting because it shows where the ginger bread man hops on the end of the fox's tail and the water gets deeper and deeper so the ginger bread man hops on the fox's back and the water gets deeper than it was before and the fox said

Water bylaw for Tay

A new by-law to standardize water systems in Tay Township is in the preparatory stages and should be completed by the end of September.

According to David Walker, Chairman of the Tay Water Committee, the bylaw will "bring together little loose ends" such as connecting fees, and water systems inspections. It will provide for regulations on connections to homes, what materials can be used in these connections.

Up to now there has been no control of what materials were used in home connections, no minimum depth of laying pipes and no control of individual home shut-off valves.

A number of homes had problems with lines freezing up this winter. Walker said, and when water department officials came to look at the problem, they discovered that plastic pipes had been used to connect homes to the municipality's water lines. Hence the need for regulations governing materials and inspections during home constructions.

Under the new bylaw, homeowners may also have to have shutoff valves installed in their homes rather than having them on the lawn. Walker cited the case where this winter a homeowner complained of a leak in his water system. When the utilities' men came to investigate, the homeowner had no idea where the shut-off valve was, only that "it was somewhere out there under three feet of snow." The repairman had to make the repair with the water on. "We'll put the onus on the homeowner to be able to turn off his water," Walker said.

Travels with Tremors

Author Jo-Ann Roenick

This book is about David, Paul and Melissa. It is about all the time they go to Mr. Tremors house to hear about his adventures. One day the children had nothing to do when Melissa jumped up and said we can go to Mr. Tremors house. So they got their bikes and rode down to Mr. Tremors house. His trailer was outside. The children knocked at the door. Paul asked Mr. Tremor why he had a trailer outside. Mr. Tremor said "I am going to Ottawa tomorrow morning". And he asked them if they wanted some cookies and milk. They all shouted yes, please.

String Bean

Author Charlotte
Illustrated by Tom Funk
This book is about String Bean, a little boy who didn't like being called String Bean. He weighed around forty pounds. His arms and an uncle were fat. They asked him why he was so skinny. However, at the end he doesn't mind being skinny because he is a hero!

A Good Dinner

Author: Aileen Belfry
Richar
This book is about two cats trying to get an egg into their home.

There were two rats that lived in a barn. They liked to go out in the green grass and play. One day the two rats went in to the grass and a hen laid an egg. When the two rats saw the egg, they were planning to take it home. But a red fox was planning to eat it too. The two rats put it on one rat's back. One of the two rats was pulling him by his tail. The fox saw the two rats taking his egg. The fox ran after them. The rats beat the fox to the barn.

Why I like This Book
I liked this book because it was really good and happy and sad. The sad part was the Temple of the Goddess of Mercy. There was a pretty girl who was the spirit of the willow tree, because her name was Willow. She married a man named Heitor, and had a son named Higo. It was sad because Willow disappeared before the
