Secretaries take a bow, it's been your week to shine

by Terri Howell
and Dave Fuller

Secretaries this is your week. Stand up and take a bow.

It's National Secretary Week in Ontario and all over Midland bosses are going out of their way to make the week special for their right hand ladies.

What makes secretaries so special, that an entire week is devoted to them?

While the boss sits behind a closed door, the secretary answers the phone, she ushers people in and out, she types, she files, she takes shorthand, she runs outside in the rain to mail letters and for some unknown reason, she never stops smiling.

The Times had an opportunity to meet and visit with some of Midland's devoted ladies this week.

Marg Rintoul, secretary to the Commissioner of Works and Public Works Engineering departments, says the most rewarding part about being a secretary is "the contact with people and looking after the boss and his assistants."

"Having a week like this is great. It's nice to be recognized," she said.

Mrs. Rintoul has worked at the town office for four years.

Nancy Milligan also works there. She started three months ago as a secretary receptionist. When you come into the town office, Nancy is usually the first person you meet.

"I have a chance to meet a lot of people coming and going," she says.

At Dr. Parson's office, patients are met with the warm smile of Susan Gow. Susan has been working in the office for five years and loves it.

"It's enjoyable work," she says adding, "I have to know how to handle people."

variety from day-to-day.

"Some days are crazy," she says.

In our own office, secretary-receptionist, June Robbins has been here for four-and-a-half years. June meets people at the front desk, answers the phone, collects money from carriers and is always running around doing her best for all of us.

We would like to take this opportunity, on behalf of The Times staff, to give June a special thanks during National Secretary Week.

OPP investigates two Tiny cottage break ins

Cottagers in the Tiny beaches area beware!

Two homes on Tiny Concession 17 have been broken into, in the last few weeks and a variety of items stolen.

According to police constable Murray Cooper from the Midland OPP, the summer home of Victor Jolic from Weston, Ontario was broken into sometime between April 2 and April 23.

The things stolen included a table phone, table and cookware, lamps, kitchen utensils, pillows, bed linens, towels, garden tools, a bicycle, a rug and other household items, totalling more than $900.

Just two lots away, the summer home of Luigi Frustaglio was broken into and goods worth over $1,600 taken.

The break and enter at the Frustaglio home took place between February 11 and April 23.

The items stolen include a water pump, electric water heater, a washing machine, two bicycles, some insulation, a chain saw, doors, four electric baseboard heaters, electric blankets, fire extinguishers, light fixtures, electric radios and other smaller items.

Both of the incidents are still under investigation by the OPP.

There was a break and enter and theft at Bayshore Bowling Lanes on King Street in Midland, Wednesday night.

According to Midland Police $585 was stolen and a window was broken.

The theft is still under investigation.

SCBE to hire 10 students

The Simcoe County Board of Education will be hiring approximately 10 students specifically from the Simcoe North federal riding for summer jobs.

The students will be hired for a total period of 14-weeks under the Young Canada Works Program and will be involved in general maintenance projects such as painting, caulking, boiler inspection and repairs, electrical inspection, site improvement and portable repairs.

Midland Trustee John McCullough told the board at a meeting Wednesday that the students would be hired only through Canada

Manpower, which administers the Young Canada Works Program and that Manpower would send what it considered suitable applicants, for the positions for interviews until the jobs are filled.

Wages for the projects will be taken from a $19,280. Young Canada Works grant recently approved for the board.
