Happy Cooker

As part of our preparation for the inevitable move to metric measurements in the kitchen, we present this Cantonese beef casserole. As in all our metric recipes, all you really need to produce this zesty and unusual dish is a metric measuring cup. Since most grocery scales are not yet in metric units, you can use the rounded off conventional measurement for the meat—which works out to two pounds.
Cantonese Beef
1 kg beef for stew cut in 3 cm pieces.
30 mL cooking fat
2 mL salt
2 mL ginger
1 medium onion, chopped
250 mL water
50 mL soy sauce
125 mL water
30 mL cornstarch
500 mL sliced celery
1 can mushrooms, sliced (227 g)
1 small green pepper, cut in strips.
1 can (227 g) water chestnuts, drained.
1 can (454 g) mandarin orange segments, drained.
Brown meat in hot cooking fat in large frying pan.
Pour off drippings.
Sprinkle salt and ginger over meat. Add onion, 250
mL water, and soy sauce and heat to boiling.
Reduce heat, cover tightly and cook slowly 1½ hours
or until meat is tender.
Blend 125 mL water with cornstarch, stir into meat mixture and cook, stirring constantly until thick.
Stir in celery, mushrooms, green pepper and water chestnuts and continue cooking covered 5-7 minutes.
Fold in mandarin orange segments. Six to eight servings will result.
