Three-day deer hunting season

Huronian will once again be holding a controlled deer hunt. This year's three-day hunt will be from Nov. 3 to 5.

As in the 1979 hunt, hunters must use shotguns or muzzle-loaders only.

No rifles are allowed. Anyone can see the reasoning behind these regulations. In built-up areas there simply is not enough clear shooting for rifles with long range.

Ontario residents only may apply for information kits. These kits include maps, procedures and rules and an application form.

Kits should be available in late August. To obtain a kit drop into the Ministry of Natural Resources office in Midhurst or write Huronia District Office, Midhurst, Ontario, L0L 1X0 requesting an information package.

Once an application is made, hunters must indicate which unit they intend to hunt. If application numbers exceed those numbers the ministry has allotted for that area a draw will be held on Oct. 6th to determine those who will be allowed to hunt in that area.

Successful applicants must affix a sticker with area number on the back of a regular deer licence. Those who hunted in the controlled hunt of 1979 may find a few changes in numbers this year.

Maps in the information package will show numbered areas. Be sure to give proper numbers when applying for sticker.

The controlled hunt of 1979 was most effective. Complaints were almost non-existent. Mobs of hunters foreseen by many never materialized.

As one spokesman for the Ministry of Natural Resources put it "our biggest problem was trying to find hunters."

However successful hunters were not too eager to bring deer to check stations. Biological information is important in a controlled hunt. It gives vital information to the Ministry as to condition and size of deer herds in our area.

Check stations will be set up at Midhurst, Coldwater, Earl Rowe Provincial Park and Dufferin County work centre.

Archery seasons for deer runs from Oct. 20 until Dec. 13. Archers will have to take a break from Nov. 2 until Nov. 6 while gunners take to the field.

Shondecti was talk of the town Saturday

Hundreds of residents and visitors in Midland stole a page out of Canadian history on Saturday and added their seal of approval to a new summer event called "Shondecti."

People of all ages turned out to watch and participate in a canoe portage through downtown Midland followed by flotillas and races to Sainte-Marie among the Hurons more than three kilometres away.

The success of "Shondecti" was the fulfillment of tireless work over several months for the manager of Sainte-Marie among the Hurons, Bill Byrick and event coordinator Kathy Voorzanger.

However, as Byrick is quick to point out, Sainte-Marie had a lot of help.

"From a planning and organizing perspective, the people in the community were fantastic as they rallied behind the event with their support."

The public was invited to rub shoulders with the 17th century by entering a canoe in "Shondecti" and they responded with 92 canoes carrying over 200 people.

Various size canoes paraded down King Street in Midland with hundreds of spectators lining both sides of the street. Many of the participants wore colourful regalia reflecting the historic theme of the festivities.

Once all canoes were launched in the Midland Bay, they started together at the town dock in Midland to a chorus of splashing paddles, clicking cameras and spontaneous applause from spectators jammed along the dock.

All canoes arrived at Sainte-Marie Park by 2:30 p.m. to a full afternoon of 17th century music, games and music along with award presentations.

History

Gifts reflecting the history of Sainte-Marie were presented to the top three finishers in the large and small canoe divisions. The large division made up of canoes carrying four people or more was won by a crew representing "Annisway Signs" in Orillia.

The winning canoe in the small division was entered by Bill Gleadall of Coldwater.

The two winning crews received copies of a newly-published book entitled, "Sainte-Marie among the Hurons", along with season passes to Sainte-Marie and the Historic Naval and Military Establishments located in Penetanguishene.

Fiberglas Canada Ltd. also donated two trophies to each crew for having the fastest fibreglass canoes in the two divisions.

Ernst Leitz (Canada) Ltd. of Midland won the award for the company entering the most canoes with seventeen.

Leitz will receive a framed, colour photograph of the first annual event.

Eight-year-old Mark Phillips of Wyevale earned the award for being the youngest participant in "Shondecti."

Rounding out the presentation was the award for most authentically dressed crew which went to Jamie Hunter of Midland and Frank Milligan of Penetanguishene.

Afternoon activities at Sainte-Marie Park attracted over 500 people who sang French songs, observed demonstrations and displays from the "Coureur de Bois" and participated in 17th century-style competition.

The evening program at Sainte-Marie among the Hurons put the finishing touches on a very successful "Shondecti" inaugural with entertainment by Ojibway Native dancers and an on-site play presented by costumed interpreters at Sainte-Marie. An enthusiastic audience of over 600 people warmly applauded the evening finale.

Event

"'Shondecti' was an event which appealed to everyone and in future years I hope it continues to be an event in which people of all ages can participate," commented Byrick.

"Through this heritage event I feel participants and spectators gained a deeper understanding of our heritage."

"In future years, I hope people across the country see the people of our community wearing a costume and standing up to say we are proud of our heritage and what our forefathers accomplished."

Many of those who participated on Saturday have already inquired as to how they can enter for next year's event and there is no finer endorsement than that.
