This centre, which is one of six in the area, is sponsored by the Good Parenting Association and is being operated under a Student Employment grant, employing, at present, seven students ages 16 to 20 years.

These drop-in centres (which are non-denominational) are designed to stimulate closer parent-child relationships and mothers must accompany their children.

The play centre is a place for the mother and child to spend time learning and sharing new experiences. Each centre is equipped with arts and crafts supplies, a selection of toys and information concerning common parent-child conflicts.

A trained supervisor is always available and will help with storytelling, hiking, singing and developing of new crafts and constructive play. The admission fee of 25 cents per child is charged to help cover the cost of snacks. Enjoy a special time with your child. For further information please call 549-3588 during office hours.

A slaughter house from the property of George Kent will soon be moved to the grounds of Coldwater Canadiana to add to the growing collection of antique buildings.

The structure, 12' x 16' originally belonged to the Community of Eady and twenty shareholders in a "Beef Ring."

Each week a beast weighing approximately the same weight was killed.

In the house were 20 numbered boxes, one for each shareholder. At the beginning, box number one would receive the prime cuts of beef and so on down the lines each week until all of the shareholders had received a full beef.

The farmer providing the beast would also receive the heart, tongue and liver. Mr. Kent for his services of killing the beast would receive the hide also. Visitors with Lloyd and Wyn Shaw of Main St. South, Coldwater, were Grace and Charles Kent from Cobourg. Also visiting were Jack and Jean Morton and family of Willowdale.

The Mortons arrived in a 1929 Durant station-wagon enroute to Manitoulin Island where they are to attend an antique car rally.
