

Firemen fight disease

Thanks to the efforts of Penetanguishene firemen slightly over $1,000 was raised Friday and Saturday to fight muscular dystrophy. Mayor Gil Robillard slaps a yellow muscular dystrophy drive sticker on Fire Captain Art Desjardins in the mall where the firemen were set up Friday afternoon.

Children's Workshop could attract 100s

The future development of children's servicing in Simcoe County will be the drawing card attracting hundreds of delegates to a special one-day workshop on Friday, Sept. 19, at Cundles Heights Public School in Barrie.

Representatives from every facet of children's service programs, from training schools, institutional facilities and group homes to day nursery and block parent programs have been invited to attend.

The politicians won't be left behind either, with municipal, federal and provincial representatives expected to turn out in large numbers.

"Judging from the advance registration for the Workshop, we are anticipating a very large turnout," Workshop Co-ordinator Maureen Watt told the press.

"We hope to provide a very stimulating program, inviting free-wheeling discussion on several topics and concerns relating to children's servicing."

The workshop will be the second conference of its type in the past two years.

"The original workshop was held in September, 1978, in response to new directives from the Ministry of Community and Social Services (COMSOC) the department which oversees most services for children," Watt said. "As a direct result of recommendations made at that session, a local Children's Services Planning Committee was appointed."

"Workshop '80 is being re-convened to bring the delegates who attended the earlier meeting as well as new representatives from the wider community, up to date on the Committee's progress over the last two years," she said.

Delegates

The workshop will also provide delegates with a new perspective on policy direction from COMSOC and a background report on Simcoe County's installation as a "seed" community sponsoring a one-year Children's Services Research Project.

The workshop itself will begin at 9:30 a.m. with "perspectives", an opening session which will feature an address by Workshop Chairman Bill Bolger, and various speakers representing COMSOC, the Children's Services Planning Committee and Simcoe County Council who are the joint sponsors of the Children's Services Research Project.

Following the opening ceremonies, the delegates will split up into groups of 20 or less under the direction of a group leader to discuss one of eight topics relating to children's servicing.

These tasks include: Gaps and Overlapping Areas in Servicing, Voluntary Co-ordination Between Agencies, Group Homes, Assessment Services, Early Identification and Prevention, Tracking, and Hard to Serve Children.

Session

There will be a session called 'Utopia' which will allow delegates to explore the possibility of setting up a completely new system of servicing children and their families.

Spokesmen from each group will be responsible for reporting back to the entire meeting in the afternoon. There will also be a brief question and answer period following each report.

"We're looking for new ideas from this brain storming session", Watt said.

Although consumers are also welcome to attend the workshop, special meetings open to the public are also being scheduled for the fall. Notices of dates and locations across the County will be announced in the near future.

Anyone wishing to attend workshop '80 can obtain a registration form by contacting Maureen Watt, Co-ordinator, Children's Services Research Office, Simcoe County Administration Centre, Midhurst, Ontario, L0L 1X0, or call the toll free number listed under Simcoe County in your local telephone directory.
