

Stubborn station wagon fire

Fire raced through and totally destroyed a station wagon on Vinden Street, Friday afternoon shortly after the driver is said to have heard a noise under the vehicle's hood. The driver wasn't injured, Midland Fire Department officials say. Traffic along Vinden was snarled for a time while the vehicle was being watered down. Smoke from the fire could be seen several blocks away billowing above the ruins.

Ogilvie receives call

Midland resident William Ogilvie announced yesterday he had received that morning a telephone call from the Minister of Education's office informing him the minister was readying a reply to his submission.

Ogilvie mailed Minister Bette Stephenson a copy of the speech he gave to the Simcoe County Board of Education (SCBE) a week ago.

Included in the speech was the claim that the sharing of the St. Joseph School Annex in Penetanguishene between the SCBE and Simcoe County Roman Catholic Separate School Board without the minister's approval is improper.

Ogilvie stated in his submission to the board he was told by a board administrative employee that the minister's approval had not been sought.

Unique program set for MHC thanks to York University

York University, of Toronto will be offering two full credit university courses this year at the Mental Health Centre in Penetanguishene, beginning the week of Oct. 20.

The courses, basic psychology and the Sociology of Formal Organizations are to be offered to staff of the centre and the public at large and will be taught in the classroom of the centre's Administration Building.

The courses are the result of consultations between York and representatives at the M.H.C. and will be offered as part of York's outreach program. This program is one through which York University offers credit courses in communities that do not have post University facilities but which show an interest and or a need for certain types of programs.

There are no prerequisites for either course other than being eligible for University enrollment, and Dr.

Harold Kaplan, Dean of Arts at York says though the courses would undoubtedly be of use to many of the staff at the centre, the program is designed for people in general and not for any particular constituency.

This will mark the first time York has offered this type of course at the M.H.C. and Kaplan said he has "great hopes there will be interest in the courses and that they will be there for a number of years."

The Psychology courses will commence on Wednesday, Oct. 22 and will run on Wednesdays from 7:00-10:00 p.m. for 24 weeks. The Sociology course will begin Thursday, October 23 and will run on Thursdays from 7 p.m.-10 p.m.

Anyone wishing more information, may attend the information session to be held Friday, Oct. 3, from 2:30-5:00 p.m., in the classroom of the M.H.C.'s Administration Building.

Open house

The Community Services Team of the Mental Health Centre in Penetanguishene will be holding open house, at their new centre today and tomorrow from 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The team which is comprised of personell with specialties in various fields have just recently moved into the newly renovated what once was the former residence of the hospital Superintendent.

The Community Services Team, though in existence for about ten years, is less known than some other community services and team member Ross Spearn says that is one basic reason for the open house. The open house will allow the public to visit and see the many types of clinical and community services the team does.
