Other correspondence referred to committee to be received by council tonight concerns an application from the Commodore Hotel to the Liquor Licence Board of Ontario to have the hotel's classification changed to tavern from hotel.

Council will also receive a letter from the town planner commenting on the hotel's application from the perspective of the town's zoning bylaws.

One bylaw on the agenda is a bylaw to authorize the borrowing by the town of $1.5 million.

Citizen briefly

Jury hands down its verdict

A former Elmvale resident, Barry James Stevens, 43, of Wasaga Beach was convicted of murder Friday in Barrie Supreme Court following a nine-day trial.

He was sentenced to life imprisonment with no chance for parole for 25 years.

The trial stemmed from the death of 25-year-old Gwendolyn Fletcher of Collingwood whose body was discovered in a wooden area in Flos Township in 1978.

Public invited to important meet

Members of the public will have the opportunity Jan. 7 to hear and comment on the request by Castle Village Gift Shop Ltd. to have the Tiny Township's official plan changed to allow for the building of a project called The Enchanted Kingdom in the township.

The notice of meeting says the application is to "amend the Official Plan to allow for a new development to be known as The Enchanted Kingdom on Part of Lots 104 and 105, Concession 1 Old Survey in the Township of Tiny."

The meeting will start at 8 p.m. on Jan. 7 in the Township of Tiny municipal office in Perkinsfield.

Electrical fire easy out

Damage to the home of John Quinn of 87 Peel Street, Penetanguishene, following an electrical fire last Thursday was minimal, Fire Chief Ted Light said.

The fire department answered the call at 9:52 a.m.

Water pipes in the residence were frozen. An attempt was being made to unblock the frozen pipes when the fire started.

No news expected before January

Penetanguishene's town planner says he hopes the town will be meeting early in the new year with the group that wants to build a hotel on the Penetanguishene waterfront.

Paul Hodgins said the details and arrangements of the proposed commercial project need to be worked out.

He didn't expect anything worth announcing would happen during the quiet period between now and early January.

ALERT will be on the job: OPP

Although Midland OPP won't be undertaking "spot checks" as such over the holidays, their ALERT machine will be riding with officers on patrol.

The machine is capable of taking breath samples as phase one in determining whether a driver should be taken to the police station for breathalyzer tests to determine whether or not he or she has been drinking to an extent charges should be laid under the Liquor Control Act.

Only one edition this week...

This is the final Penetanguishene Citizen before Christmas.
