Penetang Council Briefs

Mayor Ron Bellisle announced during Monday's meeting of town council that citizens may make appointments to meet with him in future through the municipal office on the Monday and Tuesday of each week.

Meetings will start at 11 a.m. in the municipal office.

The mayor said it has been his practice to meet with the clerk each day.

Town museum

A bylaw to designate the town museum at 13 Burke Street as being of architectural and historical interest was given third reading by town council Monday.

Council granted first and second readings at its previous monthly meeting but stopped at second reading. It was pointed out that the museum board might not be aware of what council was doing.

New employee

As of April 6 Russell Bagnell will be the newest employee of the town public works department.

Bagnell has been hired as a Machine Operator, Class 1, but like all other starting employees, he will start with a pick and shovel as his tools and work his way through more complicated equipment.

Public Works committee chairman Ray Baker told council that 29 people applied for the job, and that he was "only sorry that we don't have a job for every one of them."

Commodore

Council directed the clerk to inform the Liquor Licence Board of Ontario, in response to an inquiry from the board, that elimination of bedrooms in the Commodore Hotel is not a concern to the town.

The Commodore Hotel has applied to the Liquor Licence Board for reclassification to being considered a tavern rather than a hotel, and to stop offering bedrooms to the public.

The application has also been sent to the town planning board for the planning board's examination as to whether the change in classification conflicts with the local zoning.

Oppose increase

Bell Canada and the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission will be receiving notice from the town council that Penetanguishene opposes the 30 per cent increase in telephone rates sought by Bell Canada, to be effective Sept. 1.

Profit reported

February's Winterama was a financial as well as a popular success.

Council was told Monday that the Winterama committee has determined $503 remains after expenses.

Winterama took in $4,459 and paid out $3,956.

Short meeting

Monday's meeting, while perhaps not a record for brevity, as one councillor speculated, was certainly short.

Council went about its business at the regular time of 7:30 p.m. and concluded the public portion of its monthly meeting at 8:38 p.m., then holding a private meeting.

No delegations wished to address council. Jack O'Hara, who attends the majority of council's meetings, had several questions to ask of council.

Lane war

Nine people are for, and seven people against, the changing of Robert Lane to Dupuis Drive, as part of a plan by the town to give official, identifiable names to eight lanes in the town.

The nine people for the change to Dupuis

Drive each have Dupuis as their surname, and live either on Robert Lane or nearby.

No Dupuis are among the seven objectors, who all live on Robert Street Lane. Objection is made on the grounds that Robert Lane has been used for over 50 years, and that to change it would cause confusion, would cause inconvenience, and involve legal fees.

Election signs

Jack O'Hara asked if council could pass a bylaw to prohibit during municipal elections the posting of election signs within 100 feet of a polling booth. He told council that during last week's election he saw a candidate's sign in the doorway to one of the local polling booths. He said he knew of two people who changed their vote because the sign was there.

Clerk Yvon Gagne said that under the Municipal Election Act signs may not be posted on the building being used as a polling station, or on the property. This legislation however applies only at the local level, not at the provincial or federal level.

The clerk was instructed to check to learn if any other township has passed such a bylaw.

Accounts

Council approved accounts of $321,721.38 for the finance and administration committee.

Museum's value recognized

Penetanguishene's Centennial Museum is the second building in Penetanguishene to be officially recognized as being of architectural and historic interest. Town council gave third reading to a bylaw Monday designating the former Beck property, deeded to the town to be a museum, subsequent to a recommendation from the town Local Architectural Conservation Advisory Committee.

Odesse photo chosen by National Geographic Penetanguishene photographer Mike Odesse will have one of his photographs in a future issue of National Geographic.

The photograph is one Odesse took while on a trip through Nahanni National Park in western Canada last summer. He used the timer on his camera to take a picture of the falls in the park with himself in the foreground.

Odesse returned last Friday from Australia, where he met the photographer who will photograph the wedding of Prince Charles this July. Odesse was part of a group sent to Australia on a Rotary Club sponsored visit. An Australian group will come to Canada to complete the exchange.

Lanes name change not simple

The changing of the names of Penetanguishene's eight lanes from the official names they have had for decades to new names recommended by the town Local Architectural Conservation Advisory Committee by town council is not proving to be simple. Two different groups have complained to council about the proposed changes. Above is a section of the lane between Robert Street West and Poyntz Street.
