

MSS 13's bring a lot back from Quebec trip

A group of 43 Grade 13 students from Midland Secondary School plus three teachers spent the better part of last week in Quebec sightseeing and learning about that province.

The students, under the guidance of John Nix, Pat Gruber and Dave Moore, visited such places as Parliament Hill, museums in Ottawa, Quebec City and the Plains of Abraham in addition to taking bus tours of Ottawa and taking a ferry ride across the St. Lawrence.

The students also saw a french language play. Head supervisor,

John Nix said the trip was "a great success and the students really saw another culture."

Upon returning, the students were asked to fill out a questionnaire in order to determine how they rated the trip.

One student summed up the trip thus, "I found the trip to be interesting and informative. I saw things I never thought I would see before and found out about places I never knew existed. I now know that Canada should stay as one."

Another student wrote, "I also feel one of the most significant things that the trip presented to me was a closer feeling between Quebec and Ontario. After the trip, I would hate to see Quebec separate. Before I really didn't think of it."

The trip also worked to bring the students together as a group or as one student commented, "First, we are all important to one another and although we have our lives ahead of us, we can look back and remember how much we learned with each other and about each other on the trip."

Secondly, we learned that work and fun can be combined in a fashion which allows each of us to experience everything we want. The trip was a learning experience for me as I'm sure it was for all my friends and peers."

On the whole, the students got a different look at relationships, Quebec and Ontario, student to student and student to teacher.

As one student wrote, "It's nice to have a good student-teacher relationship."
