McAllen retiring in July

Harold McAllen of Midland will be retiring in July as Manager of Parks in Midland, ending his role as town employee of 33 and one quarter years.

McAllen became Manager of Parks in April of 1949 and he can remember Little Lake Park being the only park in Midland at that time.

Since that time, Midland has acquired eight more parks.

In 1949, there was room for 90 cabins, 28 cottages and 200-300 tents in Little Lake Park.

Then a bylaw was passed limiting minimum space for a campsite which drastically reduced the number of campers in the park.

Until 1977, McAllen also looked after the arena in Midland when he was relieved of that duty because of the construction of the new arena following the fire which destroyed the old arena.

The town felt the new arena required a separate manager, Jim

McLaren filling that job in the same year.

McLaren was appointed the office of Manager of Parks in addition to his duties at the arena in January of this year.

McAllen stayed on until April of this year in an advisory capacity.

Right now, McAllen is laid up in bed but expects to be back on his feet soon.

With his newly found spare time, McAllen hopes to be able to devote more time to his woodworking and cabinet making and would like to go west for a trip if his health allows.

MVC heading volleyball court bid

Midland Huronia Volleyball Club members will be asking for support from the residents of Midland in their attempt at founding outdoor volleyball courts in Midland's Little Lake Park.

They will be asking for donations towards the construction of four permanent metal posts and two nets on the beach sand surface in Little Lake Park.

The fund raising campaign is the culmination of over a year's work by the MVC and the Midland Board of Parks Management who will be asking for tenders for the construction.

It is hoped the courts will be completed by the end of June.

The campaign will wind up June 2 with co-ed volleyball tournament for club members and friends at 8:15 p.m. at Midland YMCA.

No longer a growth industry

Education in Ontario is no longer a growth industry. Between 1975 and 1980, a total of 183 public elementary schools closed in the province.

During the same period nine secondary schools and 80 separate schools also closed.

Flood, McLaren agree on launching ramp specs

In a story appearing in this newspaper Friday, we quoted Jim McLaren, manager of parks and arenas in Midland as stating the new launching ramp at Pete Petterson Park "meets specs".

There is some further word on that issue raised by several Midland and area residents who claimed the grading on the ramp was too steep.

Fred Flood of Midland Parks consulted the engineers and builders of the ramp for us late this past week and came up with these findings.

There is a 15 degree drop which then becomes a 20 degree drop and these grades are acceptable, according to Flood.

These grades will allow you to launch a boat off a trailer without having your car tires in the water and possibly even your exhaust.

However, because of the construction of the ramp and the grades used, it looks much steeper than it really is.

Flood maintains the steepness of the grade is mostly "illusion".

Grading on the ramp is done according to a study by the American Civil Engineers organization and have been used on previous projects such as this one in other areas.

Flood added that he has launched a boat there himself at Pete Petterson Park and he has not had any problems.
