

Life of Theodore Holdings subdivision runs out

The subdivision for Penetanguishene proposed by Theodore Holdings in 1978 has been given an official burial.

The Ontario Act provides that a subdivision that has been given draft approval, but not final approval within three years of being granted draft approval, will lapse.

The subdivision plan received draft approval on June 16, 1978, and would have lapsed on June 16, 1981. However, the Ministry of Housing extended the deadline for one month, to enable the owner to contact the town if he wished to discuss council's asking the ministry for a further extension of draft approval.

During the July 20 meeting of the Penetanguishene Planning Board, the fact was noted that there had been no contact with the developer since draft approval was granted in 1978.

And since the responsibility of asking for an extension is that of the developer, and since the subject of a further extension was brought up by the ministry, the planning board concluded that the town should not support a further extension of draft approval.

Mayor Ron Bellisle

said it was apparent that the developer did not have any concern about the agreement lapsing, during discussion of the planning board's recommendation at the last council meeting.
