Student Centre staff bids farewell

Dear Editor:
Thank you all for your enthusiasm and support. The interest you have displayed towards our office has contributed to a very successful and enjoyable 1981 summer season.

All is fair in love and war! Although we beat you in the Baseball Challenge, we would like to comment on the good humour and good sports who participated for the Media Team (Start greasing those mitts for next year).

As a final note we leave this message from our staff to yours - Thanks and best wishes for the rest of the year!

-Staff of 1981

Your community newspaper thanked

Dear Editor:
Thank you for the advertising you donated to our organization this year. Without the advertising our fund-raising events would not have been as successful as they were.
Thank you.

Sincerely
-Regent P.T.A.

Thank you.

Honey Harbour residents injured

Two passengers in a van driven by a Honey Harbour man and involved in a traffic accident last Friday were slightly injured, Midland OPP reports.

Cindy Lizotte, 23, and Barry Lizotte, 2, both of Honey Harbour, were minimally injured as a result of a 5:55 p.m. accident on Muskoka Road 5, 6.2 kilometers west of Highway 69.

Sandford Lizotte, 28, of Honey Harbour, was the driver of the van. Hartvig Vanaselja, 57, of Toronto, was the driver of the other vehicle, a car.

No charges were laid after the accident, which took place on a curve while rain was falling, police said.

by Mary Haskill
Raymond Holt, past-president of Huronia Players, is playing the role of lawyer Eden, in Gryphon Theatre's production of "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" currently running at the Georgian College Theatre in Barrie.

"Whose Life Is It Anyway?" stars Don Harron in the role of a talented sculptor who is paralyzed and dependant on life support systems as the result of a car accident. Basically little more than a head, he pleads with his doctors and the hospital staff to turn off the machines and let him die. They refuse--so he sues the hospital.

Due to his dependance on the machines, the court must come to the hospital. The scene is played in a small section representing a hospital room in the centre of the Georgian's wide stage. "We're so crowded, I feel right at home," Holt quips. "Just like Huronia Players."

He is enjoying working with Vernon Chapman, Artistic Director of the Gryphon and Don Harron. Harron has the gift of making everyone feel at ease. He told Holt he has fond memories of Midland and playing in Little Lake Park as a youngster. Another time, "Charlie Farquharson" battled through a snowstorm to attend an autograph party in Huronia Mall. He was amazed by the number of people who attended.

Dawn Greenhalg and Claude Bede play doctors and Tommy Lloyd, Artistic Director of Theatre Sudbury, has a cameo role.

This is the second time Holt has played with the Gryphon Company. All in all, "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" marks his one hundredth production. "That's going right back to kindergarten in England and counting all manner of involvement from acting to production, directing and backstage work." Over ninety of the plays have been in Canada, most of them with Huronia Players and Midland Secondary School where he is the Theatre Arts teacher.

"Whose Life Is It Anyway?" by Brian Clark and directed by Vernon Chapman will run at the Georgian College Theatre in Barrie until Saturday, Sept. 5.

Charges connected to credit card theft laid

Midland OPP have charged a Port McNicoll youth with two counts of fraud, and one count of theft of $200 and under, in connection with fraudulent use of a Gulf Canada and a Visa, credit card.

Police were notified on Aug. 23 by the Toronto Dominion Visa Centre in Toronto that a Visa card owned by Wayne Reimer of Toronto was being used fraudulently in the Midland area.

Reimer had reported his credit cards lost and believed stolen on June 30.

As a result of subsequent police investigation, Terry Parliament, 18, of Port McNicoll, was arrested and charged by police on Aug. 25.

Parliament will be appearing in provincial court in Penetanguishene on Sept. 24 in answer to the charges.
