

Tiny Township Council Briefs Light agenda

by Adrienne Graham Gardner

Tiny Township council met in a regular session on Wednesday to deal with an unusually light agenda.

Councillors John Butler and Ron Hamelin were unable to attend the meeting. Councillor Butler was in Toronto on business while Ron Hamelin had been admitted to Penetanguishene General Hospital for a series of tests.

Mail Service

Delays in mail service were pointed out by council. The Clearwater Beach Association complained during a recent meeting with Reeve Morris Darby that election notices were not delivered to Toronto members until two weeks after the most recent municipal election.

More recently, a letter from the North Tiny Community Association dated May 19 was not received by the township until late August.

Airport

Tiny's chief administrative officer, Guy Maurice, was appointed to attend future Huronia Airport meetings in place of Hamelin beginning with Wednesday night's meeting and until further notice.

Accounts

The following accounts were authorized by council: General Accounts for the month ending September 9 $74,844; Roads Department $20,979; Water Department $18,279; Fire Department $1,143; "No Parking" signposts $3,872; Ainley and Associates (engineers) $2,353.

Clearwater Beach Road

In response to a request from the Clearwater Beach Association, the township bylaw naming "Lakeshore Road" has been amended to change the designation of the road. In future the road will be known officially as "Clearwater Beach Road" and Tiny will pay 60 per cent of the cost of necessary signs to be installed by the association.

Volkswagen

Tiny supported a resolution originating from Georgina Township criticizing the federal government for its "interference" in the decision of Volkswagen Canada to locate a manufacturing plant in Barrie. According to the resolution, "the federal government should adopt a 'hands off' policy" in such matters.

Wyevale Pines Stop Sign

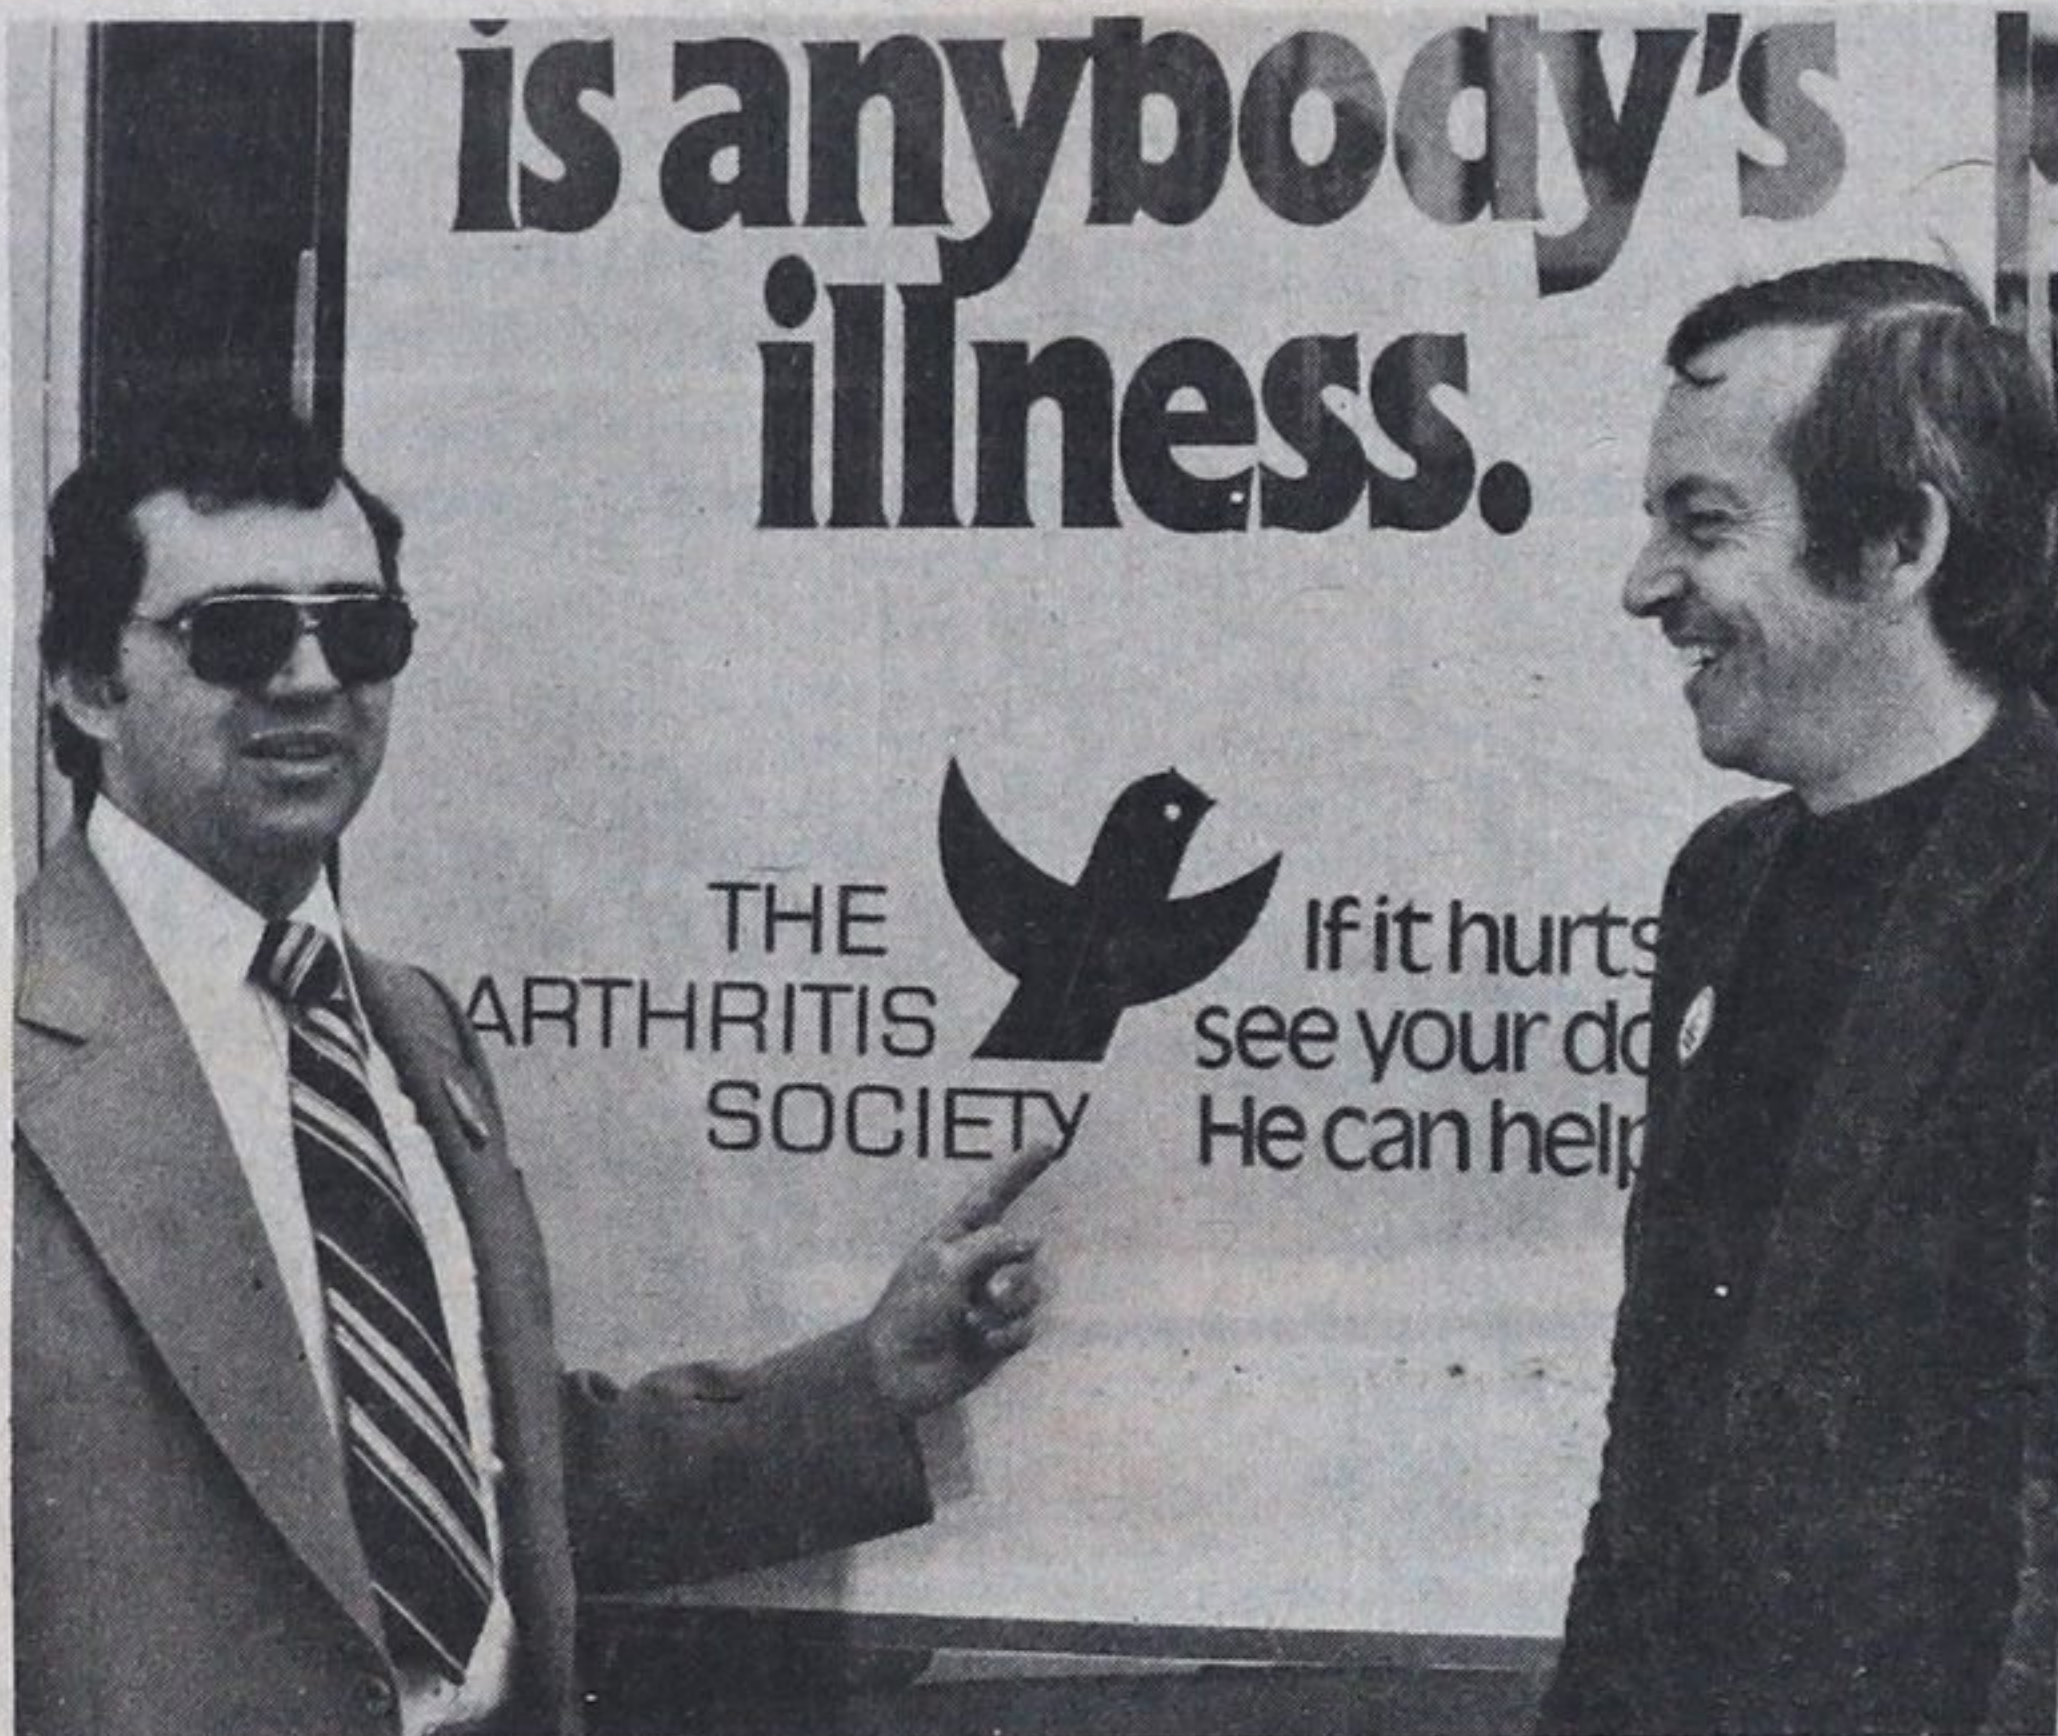

Tiny Township will go ahead and install two stop signs in the Wyevale Pines subdivision following requests by local residents.

The cost of the signs is to be deducted from securities held by the township against default by the developer in his responsibilities. The signs had been promised in two previous meetings by the developer, but had never been installed.

Enumeration postponed

Tiny has approved a proposal by the Ontario Ministry of Revenue to hold municipal enumeration only during municipal election years. The Ministry also proposes to use funds saved by eliminating the off-election enumeration to initiate a 4-year assessment cycle, and expand information sessions relating to assessment.

Canvassers coming Tuesday

Residents of Penetanguishene can expect to be visited next Tuesday by a canvasser for the Arthritis Society. Local chapter president Pat Marion, left, and Bob Klug, campaign chairman, right, say the goal this year is $3,100.

Expresses his thanks

Victor Knox, president of Cwaga Property Owners Association has expressed his thanks to Tiny council for making the "Church in the Pines Park" available to the association for summer church services. The inaugural church service was conducted on July 19, and was attended by 75 area cottagers.

The park is located near the beach on the 11th concession, and is used for the regular interdenominational church services each Sunday morning throughout the summer.

All kindergartens full today

Children starting kindergarten at St. Joseph's School and Corpus Christi School in Penetanguishene this week won't meet all of their classmates until today.

This year the public school kindergarten classes started on a staggered schedule.

The 65 children registered at St. Joseph's School, and the 18 children registered at Corpus Christi School, went to school Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday this week in different groups.

St. Joseph's School has about 10 more kindergarten students this year. The school's enrolment is 510.

With two less students in kindergarten, the afternoon kindergarten class at Corpus Christi has been dropped. The morning class has 18 pupils.

Corpus Christi School's total population has only dropped about 10 students, almost exactly as statistics indicated, to 389 students.

In Penetanguishene's separate elementary schools, the kindergarten population has increased slightly. St. Ann's School's population stood at eight Wednesday, and St. Louis School's population at 11. Total population of St. Louis is 26.

The biggest change has been in the total population of St. Ann's School. In its second year the school has about 110 students, about double the number that it had when the school opened last September.
