

Katimavik visitors

Katimavik is an Inuit word for "meeting place" and involves young people from across Canada. They travel to one place and live there for three months, working and living as part of the community. Such a group is now in Midland, totalling 35 in all.

In the above photograph they are back row from left: Mario Rodier, Que.; Andre Leveitte, Que.; Neil Dorey, N.S.; Daniel Bellefleur, Que.; Michel Belanger, Ont.; Michael Gallant, P.E.I.; Norm Gravel, Ont.; Stephen Chapplou, B.C.; Pascal Desrosiers, Que.; Francis Dube, Que.; Guylaine Dovet, Que.; Daniel Chapin, Ottawa Valley, group leader; Cindy Thomas, Ont.; group leader. ## Town would rather deal with TTPPB

Penetanguishene town council has indicated its preference to deal with the Tiny-Tay Peninsula Planning Board on a project announced by the provincial government, rather than Simcoe County.

The program concerns the hiring of a full-time energy conservation auditor who would direct energy conservation efforts in Penetanguishene, 80 per cent of wages for such a hiring being provided by the provincial government.

Normally, under the program, county of regional municipalities are expected to apply on behalf of a number of municipalities in the area but town council passed an amendment, Monday night, that would give the area planning board the right to handle such an application.

The provincial grant would pay a person qualified in a related field such as engineering or architecture of environmental planning up to $20,000 per annum for the first year, $18,000 for the second year and $15,000 for the third year.

If the Tiny Tay Peninsula Planning Board were to accept the responsibility of submitting the application and it were accepted, an energy conservation auditor could effectively be shared by the six municipalities housed by the planning board. However, if the area planning board does not wish to handle the application, Penetanguishene will have to rely on Simcoe County

Historic sites designated by council

Town council voted, Monday night at its regular monthly meeting, to designate two town properties as being of architectural and historical value or interest.

Those properties were St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church on Robert Street and the house located at 14 Water St.

PGH blitz to be held

Penetanguishene General Hospital will be asking for donations Monday when they hold their annual blitz.

This year's target is $18,000 which will be used to buy a portable X-ray machine, something that is needed desperately now that they have installed a new chronic ward at PGH.

French Centre's fund-raiser going well

The fund-raising campaign for the French Centre in Penetanguishene is going well, a total of $15,500 in pledges already having been collected.

Basil Dorion of the French Centre says there is "a lot more potential in the community" in the neighbourhood of another $3,000 to $4,000.

Tay reaches into its money belt

At its most recent meeting, Tay Township council approved general accounts totalling $324,337 be paid.
