McManus Team coming to Knox

The Midland area has long known the Fall Conferences hosted on an annual basis by the Knox Presbyterian Church.

These fall conferences are held to deepen the spiritual life, not only of the congregation, but also of all those who attend. Traditionally, all of the Midland people are invited, as well as many of the churches in the larger areas are asked to extend the invitation.

Fall Conferences may focus on general Bible teaching, or on a specific topic, such as Dr. John Walvoord's presentations on the Second Coming; or may be directed to evangelism.

This year the intention is to present evangelism in a personal and meaningful way, through the services of Victor and Maureen McManus.

They will be the featured speakers during the latter part of the week of Nov. 16.

Victor will speak both on the deeper Christian life (Nov. 19 and 20) and lead the evangelistic services of Nov. 21 and 22. Maureen is expected to speak at the Ladies' luncheon on Saturday.

The Saturday evening service is aimed at the young people of the area, although it certainly is not intended to exclude the older folks. As a matter of fact, Mr. L. Shewfelt, the the Conference chairman, hopes that both young and old will attend as many of the meetings as possible.
