

MSS girls will battle the best

The Midland Secondary School Senior Girls' basketball team will try to play the role of streak-stopping spoilers when they meet two-time Ontario Federation of School Athletic Association defending champion Sudbury Secondary School in an exhibition matchup tomorrow at MSS.

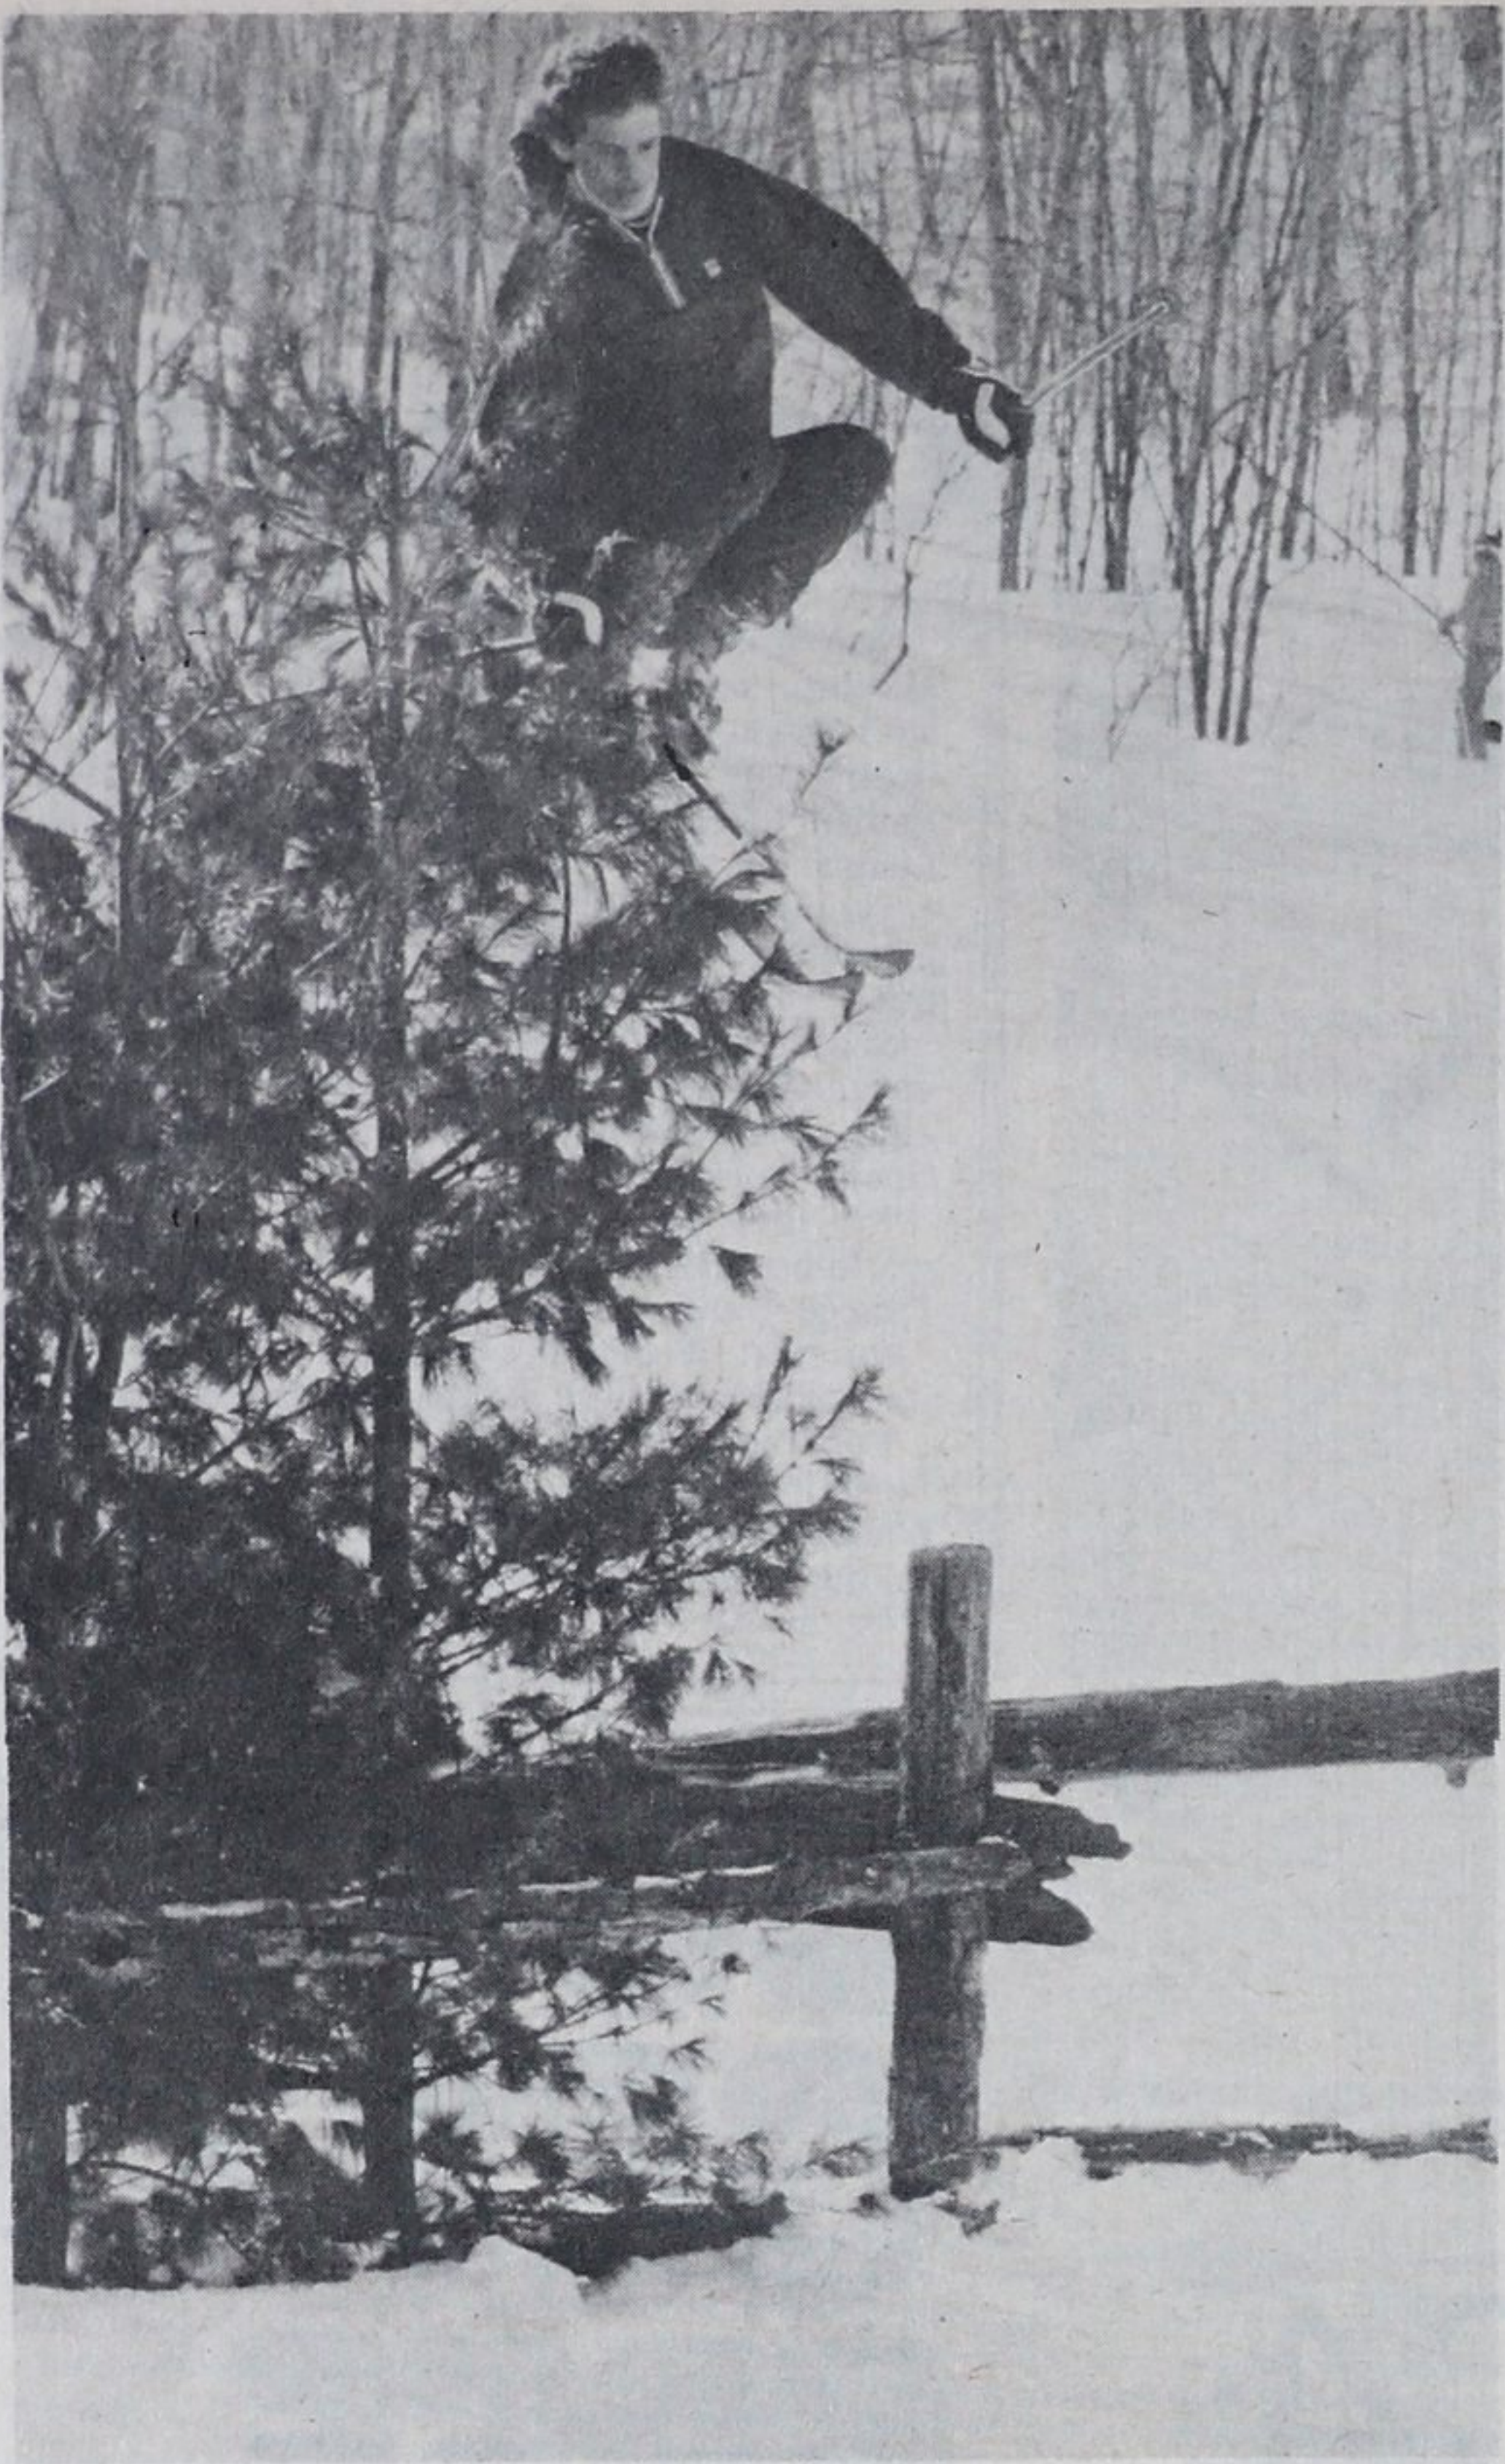

The Sudbury squad, currently riding a 70-game unbeaten streak, are looking for some competition en route to an upcoming Eastern Canadian tournament in Guelph. Lately, they've been playing boys' teams in the Sudbury area, and have been looking for a solid test against a girls' team before the tournament.

They chose Midland, the team which allowed them the fewest points when they met in the quarter-finals of this year's OFSAA championship.

Sudbury, which averages 80-90 points a game, managed only 60 against Midland when they met in their one and only encounter, and, says MSS coach Brigg Harvey, the 25-point margin that still existed could have been closed by a lot more if his girls hadn't suffered from the jitters which usually accompany a square-off with Sudbury.

"Their coach told me it was the toughest game he'd had in the tournament," said Harvey. "For this one, our conditioning will be down a little bit, but we'll be ready for them."

Thursday's game will get underway at 7 p.m. and admission is 50 cents.

Wilding up the ski season

A local daredevil flies through the air, past some trees and over a fence during a run at Mountain View Ski Resort recently. The bright skies and promising weather may have inspired some youthful skiers to try to get the best out of the what's left of the season, or as Mountain View proprietor Don Foster views it, "getting the worst out of it."

Midgets win, tie Stoning 'em

The Midland Stoneleigh Motors Minor Midgets came up with a win and a tie over visiting Amherst, N.Y. in exhibition action on the weekend at Midland Arena.

Tom Hook and Mike Magloughlin each scored once and picked up an assist in Saturday's 2-2 draw.

Marlon Geiseler also picked up an assist.

Sunday's game was marred by some third-period scrappy play by Amherst, allowing Midland to notch two goals in the frame for a 4-2 decision.

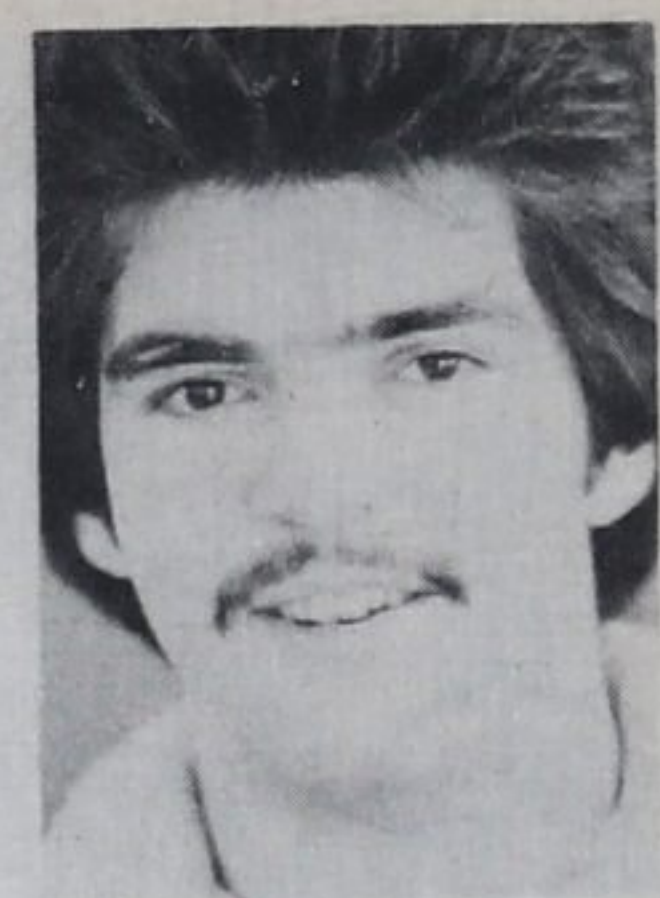

Mike Newhouse, Jason Baguley, Magloughlin and

Geiseler were the Midland marksmen.

Hook posted two assists and Steve Bisson had one.

Midland had three minors in Sunday's game while Amherst were called for eight minors and one 10-minute misconduct.

Goodine off to forces

Paul Goodine has guaranteed himself a uniform for the next five years - but it won't be the gold and Kelly green of the Midland Athletics.

The 21-year-old rookie Athletics goaltender will be heading for Cornwallis, Nova Scotia, Friday to begin a career in the Canadian Armed Forces.

Goodine, who says he started looking into an army career in Grade 12 at Midland Secondary School, will study safety systems with the air force.

"I've done a lot of thinking about it," Goodine said last week.

"I must have changed my mind about three times since I first contacted the recruitment people."

But, says Goodine, he's made a decision now and he'll stick with it. And aiding the decision was the fact that "all of my friends have been encouraging - they're all behind me."

Goodine came up through the Midland Minor Hockey Association ranks with close friend Craig Watson, with whom he shared the A's net-mind duties this season.

He also played with the Penetanguishene Kings after graduation from the MMHA.

he'll miss A's party by a day

Whenever something got by goaltender Paul Goodine during his stint with the Midland Athletics, it was always close.

And so it will be with the club's last official function, the Athletics' annual awards banquets and dance. The event is slated for the Penetanguishene Legion Hall Saturday - a day after Goodine leaves for Cornwallis, Nova Scotia, to begin his tour of duty with the Canadian Armed Forces.

The public is invited to the dance following the award presentations, and tickets ($10) can be had from any player or executive member of the Athletics.
