Church break-ins leads to arrest

Montgomery Kilmer, 16, of no fixed address was sentenced in Midland court this week to one year's probation and 50 hours of community service after pleading guilty to two counts of break and enter and one count of attempted break and enter.

Kilmer was arrested in Toronto after Penetanguishene police commenced an investigation into a series of break-ins earlier this month at St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church in which efforts were made to take money from the church's "poor box."

Wyevale

Museum tour

On July 15 about 15 members of Wyevale Pine Ridge Institute toured the Midhurst Museum and held a short meeting in the boardroom. Also enjoyed a luncheon at the picnic tables under the trees - a most enjoyable day.

generation was very fortunate.

Sharing, accepting and giving are her favourite remedies for many of life's difficulties.

"Giving does something for your heart condition," says Isabel MacIntosh.

The gift of her company is as good as an apple any day.

Victorian Order nurse.

Although being very old may bring difficulties of strength, health, vision or hearing, Miss MacIntosh feels that every stage of life has its own problems.

When she reads about those which youth face today and the incidence of adolescent suicide, she feels that her she is able to enjoy her long life because of others - her friends from childhood (one of whom named a daughter for Isabel), her fellow congregants at church and the fine people in the Hamilton community who provide her with home care services, such as Meals-on-Wheels, a Homemaker and the highly successful election to office of the late Nora Frances Henderson.

Isabel MacIntosh is a vital woman today. With assistance, she maintains her own apartment, dresses her own hair, does her own shopping and has friends in for tea.

She admires Prime Minister Trudeau and watches TV news eagerly. "Front Page Challenge" is her other favourite.

Discovering that we are both only children, she sparks, "It's a myth -- don't you agree -- that only children are more selfish. If anything, the opposite is true. We need others and reach out more."

Her life certainly reflects this. She feels spent two years in New York studying the diseases of women, which she recalls as a wonderful experience.

Other highlights in her life include a trip to Paris and Brussels in 1933 as the First Jeanne Mance Nurse to represent Canada at the International Congress of Nurses, a medal she received from King George V commemorating Their Majesties' Silver Jubilee in 1935 and the excitement of her political involvement as Secretary of the Hamilton Women's Civic Club, which was instrumental in the

New look fire truck

Over the past two months, Victoria Harbour's 1961 Chevrolet Spartan fire truck has undergone a complete refurbishing by John Frlie of the Harbour. The truck has now been placed back in service after receiving a major body and paint job as well as minor engine repairs. During the period that the truck was out of service, fire protection for the village was provided by Tay Township's Waubaushene and Old Fort brigades. As well as the new look for the fire truck, the Harbour's volunteer firefighters are now equipped with "pagers" to notify them of a fire rather than the general alarm siren that has been used over the years. TOP PHOTO shows the new Daytona yellow paint job and new lettering scheme. BOTTOM PHOTO, the truck is shown in the early stages of being overhauled.

"It is dangerous to become my friend", says Isabel MacIntosh as she greets me at her door. "I keep my friends all my life."

Born in 1887, Miss MacIntosh is an early graduate of the Hamilton General Hospital's School of Nursing.

Student nurses in those days received no payment other than room and board and worked 12 hour shifts. Upon graduation, they could expect a salary which ranged from $40-$60 a month.

Following her graduation Miss Isabel

Stolen car burned in Port McNicoll

The stolen car of Midland resident Marlene Zoschke was found by Midland OPP around 5:30 a.m. last Friday in Port McNicoll. The car was set on fire. The Port McNicoll fire department extinguished the fire. No one has been arrested.
