

Getting mellow in some Jello

Could a Funfest really be Fun without Jello Wrestling?

Maybe, but organizers of this Saturday's Funfest dance at the Coldwater Community Centre decided a little-grappling in the goo couldn't do any harm to the merriment, so they've lined up three young ladies who'll do battle in just that sort of squishy, squirmy manner.

It'll be a first for Coldwater, says town recreation co-ordinator Robert Duck, and "it'll be interesting."

No one said it wouldn't. But Duck still isn't sure whether the three ladies -- two local, one from Toronto, none of whom have ever Jello-wrestled before -- will try to get a grip on the game "in the commercial stuff or a kind of thickened glop that'll be more like gravy than anything else."

Whatever it is will be poured between sets of the dance's featured band, The Northern Edition: during other intermissions there'll be other events such as the more traditional tug-of-war.

Admission is $3 a person and tickets are available at the community centre or from any member of the Georgian Bay Terriers Oldtimers Hockey Club.

Special week in September

Midland Block Parents were given the green light at Monday night's council meeting to hold Block Parents Week, Sept. 13-19.

The committee intends to use the week to publicize the Block Parent plan in Midland, to solicit new members and to carry out some form of fund-raising drive.

Beef dinner time again

Fourth Annual Beef Barbecue will be held at Waverley Community Centre on Saturday, Aug. 14, between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m.
