Jan Kee artist

by Garry Forbes
Adorning the walls of several Toronto offices, living rooms and dens are lavish pen-and-ink depictions of North Huronia wooded scenes created by a man who has never had an art lesson in his life.

They hang on those walls because their owners happened to pause from their Yonge St. bustle long enough to watch a tranquil gentleman patiently apply his craft (one of them), and, soon enough, they bought.

The craftsman is Jan Kee, a 61-year-old Penetanguishene marina carpenter who enjoys his trips to Toronto, where he can sell his works at up to $60 a crack, but enjoys more the relaxed life in his home area, the place from which he draws all of his inspiration.

"I usually take five or six drawings with me and set up a chair on Yonge St. and just start working," says Kee, originally a native of Holland. "It's no problem at all selling them, and for more than I can here (he fetches $20 to $40 in his home area). It's not that people don't like art here, there's just not the market."

At any rate, Kee doesn't draw for the money, though it's always nice to sell. It's a hobby, albeit a hobby he's had since boyhood when his grandfather, who ran a paper mill, made paper and pencils readily available.

He's never taken an art lesson, but there never really was a need: his whole family has always been artistic, right down to his commercial-artist daughter.

"It keeps me busy," says Kee. "And I like it."

Wise and otherwise

Deanlea and Wym-bolwood Beaches present a special problem, as the Beach Associations have their own numbering systems. Councillor Ron Hamelin termed Deanlea Beach "a maze", but said "the people still need their houses to be easily located in an emergency."

The area is covered by fourteen maps. The project is starting at Concession 10 and going south. As soon as each map is completed, with all the streets named and numbered, the assessment department will be notified and the new system will be in effect in that area. Posting street signs will be up to the municipality. Administrator Guy Maurice stated.

FLOS-ELMVALE MEMORIAL ARENA

An ad hoc committee will be established to study the feasibility of a joint agreement for the operation of the Flos-Elmvalle Memorial Arena. A member of council from each municipality will be appointed to the committee.

At a meeting on Wednesday, August 18th, Councillor Ron Hamelin told the committee that Parks and Recreation was in the process of a master plan study of recreational facilities in the area, which would include the Arena.

Mr. Peter Cavill, Director, County of Simcoe Recreation has offered his services to meet with the proposed committee.

So far, the Flos-Elmvalle Memorial Arena has relied on outright grants for funding.

Accounts

The following regular accounts were approved by council:

General Accounts $30,231.89; Roads $75,841.57 of this, $66,623.00 was for the LeBlanc Bridge project; Fire $336.06; Water $779.86; Parks & Recreation $1,401.62.

Dump site meeting postponed

by Carol Dimock
Township of Tiny Councillor Ron Hamelin agreed to postpone the public meeting on the Pauze Landfill Site, previously scheduled for Aug. 26, "under protest", he told council, Wednesday.

"We were supposed to get this report last December", Hamelin stated.

"They have had sufficient notice - agreed to last fall, the meeting was re-arranged in April, and confirmed again at the MPT meeting in July. "I get the feeling that they are trying to wiggle out of the whole works," Hamelin said.

The meeting was intended to give the public the opportunity to hear a presentation by Morrison Beatty Ltd., Hydrogeologic Consultants to Eric Pauze Construction Ltd. of the results of their investigation of the site.

Beatty has advised council he will be unable to attend the planned meeting, so it has been postponed until Sept. 9.

Deputy-reeve John Lackie, who will be chairman of the meeting, said, "I am looking forward to seeing what changes have occurred in the results of the testing since the last report, several months ago."

Darby named

Head of Tiny Township council and former warden of Simcoe County received new honours in Toronto this week.

Reeve Darby was elected to the 80-member board of directors of the Association of Municipalities of Ontario.

The township lawmaker is also the past-president of the Rural Municipalities of Ontario Association.

Darby's new appointment stems from having his name submitted to AMO from his municipal council.
