Midland Fall Fair

one of the oldest in Ontario

The Tiny-Tay Agricultural Society will be presenting its 1982 edition of the Midland and District Fall Fair at the Midland Fair Grounds from Sept. 16 to 19. Being one of the oldest fairs in the province, if not the country, the exhibition will feature something for everyone.

As in last year's presentation, this year will feature a Sunday Fair. A Horse-Pull for light horses and Midway rides will be included in Sunday's program.

Proceedings will get underway on Friday afternoon with the school parade at 1 p.m. The Miss Midland Fair competitions will be held in the arena at 8 p.m.

Another new event on the fair program this year will be a goat show on Saturday at 1 p.m.

Included in Sunday's events along with the horse-pull and midway will be a Western Saddle Horse and Gymkana show at 12 noon.

An invitation is extended to everyone by this year's president Everett Marshal to come to the fair and enjoy the events.

A rose by any other name

The Elmvale Community Hall on Aug. 25 was the setting for a garden of flowers, when the Horticultural Society held their fourth Flower Show.

Under the theme of Nature's Beauty, 32 exhibitors displayed 295 samples of their spring and summer's work.

Much improvement in the individual exhibits and in the artistic designs, made this show the best to be held to date.

Top prizes of the Show - for Horticultural exhibits went to Barrie Navarro for his Double Rose Impatiens plant - and to Mrs. Grace Marcellus for her Artistic Design to illustrate 'Summer Follies'.

Mr. Kevin Healey showed films from the Ministry of Food and Agriculture, at various times during the day and evening.
