

Francis confirms Grew Boats' sale

The present owner of Grew Boats said it would be a "couple of weeks" before an official statement will be offered regarding the sale of the Penetanguishene business.

Peter Francis said yesterday that "the company has been sold, but the legal documents will still have to be signed" before details of the transaction can be offered and names of the new owners released.

Meet 'em face to face on Monday

Pick an issue, any issue, and put it to the candidates for public office in Midland during the Midland Jaycees' Meet the Candidates Night Monday at the Civic Centre.

The event will be restricted to candidates for Midland council and the Midland Public Utilities Commission, and it'll all be taped by Cable 12 for broadcast Tuesday night.

There'll be an audience question-and-answer session as well as a press panel, and the whole thing is slated to get rolling at 7 p.m.

Boucher to serve as MPMAC secretary

Marg Boucher, the former secretary of the Tiny Tay Peninsula Planning Board, will take over as part-time secretary of the for the newly-created Midland-Penetanguishene Manpower Adjustment Committee.

She will operate out of the Midland Chamber of Commerce offices on First St. The new committee is comprised of 12 members from Midland and Penetanguishene town councils, chambers of commerce and the Midland and District Labour Council.

It will seek to take advantage of provincial Industrial Labour Adjustment Program grants and conduct a labour statistics survey. An independent chairman, Alex Wilson of Orillia, will head the committee.

General Legion meeting Tuesday

The Royal Canadian Legion Branch 68, Penetanguishene, will hold a general meeting Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. All ordinary and associate members are urged to attend.

Ultra-sound discussed again

PGH, HDH meet second time

Officials from Huronia District Hospital and Penetanguishene General Hospital met again today at HDH to further discuss the subject of ultra-sound equipment and the planned purchase of the equipment by both hospitals.

The two groups had met Wednesday evening at PGH but no decisions were reached, said Sister Joan Whalen of PGH. The equipment, used for radiation-free internal photography, is worth between $75-100,000 and has been the subject of a fund-raising campaign at HDH.

The equipment was ordered by the hospital, but, at the monthly HDH board meeting Monday night, vice-chairman Rev. Rod Barlow said that the order had been withheld after discussion among management committee members.

PGH also plans to buy ultra-sound equipment, said Sister Whalen, but the hospital "hasn't made any steps yet."

"One reason was, the agent advised us to wait until the spring or summer of next year" because development of the equipment is undergoing rapid advancements.

The two hospitals have a joint committee which meets a couple of times a year to discuss various management issues.

Wait a sec-pumpkins don't have tails!

Bonnie Reynolds, children's librarian at the Midland Public Library, guides a young man during a game of "Pin the tail on the pumpkin" on Wednesday.

About a dozen kids warmed up for Saturday's big day by climbing into their costumes for the fun and games at the library.

Club dough

The Penetanguishene II 4-H Homemaking Club is well underway, project leaders Bev Duquette and Helen Marchand announced this week.

The name of the project is "Dah! Dough Does," and members have finished their fourth meeting with three to go.

At the end of this project the members will put the skills they have learned to work as they prepare for a club party.

Executives for "Dah! Dough Does" are as follows: President, Jana Zylich; Vice President, Cheryl Marchand; Press Reporter, Trish Foley; Achievement Day Convenors: Aimee Marchildon and Sheryl Duquette.
