

OUTDOORS

by Bryan Berriault

If a crowd is present and the subject of fishing happens to pop up, its for sure someone in the crowd, who's not a wand waving nut, will ask why most anglers carry so many rods and reels? For years I could never quite get a proper answer, in fact, at times I began to wonder myself. But, at long last, I think I have the answer. Fishing is much like golfing.

Different situations call for different equipment. A bait cast rod and reel may not work well on a river bank while chasing trout but its second to none when working big hawks on a shoreline.

It would be a waste of graphite or boron sensitivity to use these materials while fishing downriggers since a fine touch is not needed. Here glass rigger sticks prove their worth. A fly rod on a muskie boat would look as out of place as a pool cue on a golfing green. Not that either wouldn't work, but the chances are slim.

Each rod and reel has its own characteristics. Many will serve a multitude of purposes, especially if fishing outing are few during the course of a year. But, for those who seek pure enjoyment and success on the many hours put into fishing, several outfits will decorate the walls.

With economics the way they are throughout the area, expense enters the picture. For those who are serious about fishing, equipment rod building may be the answer. Building your own custom rod is becoming more and more popular. It has a twofold purpose. First, and very important, it cuts down on the cost, which in turn cuts down on the silent treatment when the little woman finds out the cost of graphite or boron rods on the market. Building your own, in some cases, may cut costs in half.

Second and most important to the user, is the construction. We all have our own personal preferences in rods. By building your own, these little things can be built in or purchased at the time. When it's finished you have your own personal rod, tailored to your needs and quite possibly the only one of its kind in the world.

Perhaps a Fenwick, the 'in rods', brings a gleam to your eye. Why not build one?

Check local sport shops. If what you're looking for cannot be purchased locally, try Angling Specialties Box 186, Guelph, Ontario, N1H 6J9, or L. G. Custom Tackle, R.R. 2 Mount Hope, Ontario, L0R 1W0. Sportcam Ltd, 3598 Dufferin St. Downsview, Ont. M3K 1N7 may also be able to help you. Instead of wasting away the rest of the winter build a rod.

STHS teams active in volleyball

Both the junior and senior girls' volleyball teams from St. Theresa's High School continue to be busy these days.

Last Thursday both squads travelled to Le Caron to take part in a three team tourney with Le Caron and Elmvale.

Juniors defeated both squads easily, as Sue Ford and Chris Duval led the Crusaders past Le Caron, and Ford served 15 straight points against Elmvale, as STHS juniors whipped them 15-0, 15-1.

Senior Crusaders also won against Le Caron and Elmvale, defeating the former 15-12 and 15-10, and dropping the latter 15-10, 15-

STHS has a little trouble early in these matches due to the insertion of some new faces into the line-up but overcame the problem to win handily.

Both teams saw action in tournaments last weekend as the junior Crusaders went to Barrie and won the consolation in the Barrie Central Invitational tourney.

STHS played in a pool with Bracebridge, Innisdale, Midland Secondary, and Barrie North where they won five of eight games and made the playoff round. There they met Barrie Central winning 15-6 and losing 11-15.

Winterama hockey tournament

In conjunction with Penetanguishene's Winterama Carnival there will be an Atom division minor hockey tournament going on all weekend at Penetang Arena.

Friday night there are games scheduled for 5:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. and action continues in the first round untill noon on Saturday. Consolation and championship play continues from that point until the title games on Sunday.

Consolation title game goes at 4:30 p.m. Sundry, followed by the Grand Championship game at 5:45 p.m.

There will be 14 teams from all over southern Ontario vying for the tournament championship.

The list of entrants include the host Penetang major and minor atoms, Midland,

The list of entrants include the host Penetang major and minor atoms, Midland, Barrie, Collingwood, Clarkson, Saltfleet, Streetsville, Oshawa, Stroud, Downsview, Richmond Hill, Erindale, and Humberview.

Should be some exciting puck action during the Winterama festivities, so drop in to the Arena and take a look at some of our future shinny stars.

Wyevale

by Jeanne Webb

The Wyevale Recreation Group is sponsoring an Outdoor Skating Party at the rink on Sunday, Feb. 20, from 2 to 4 p.m. This is open to the Community, free refreshments will be available.

Mr. Ted Caston spent some time in the Newmarket Hospital with a back problem. We are pleased to know that he is home again.

Mr. Bud Caston was in Penetang General Hospital for several days, having undergone hand surgery.

Mrs. Marion Spring is also a patient in Penetang Hospital.

Mr. George Marshall has been in Midland Hospital. They are all wished a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Gazaard from Niagara Falls, wife of Rev. Gazaard, former Wyevale and Waverley United Church Minister, spent a few days at Mr. and Mrs. Victor Campbell's. While Mrs. Gazaard was there Mary hosted a birthday tea, also invited friends in from the area to visit with Dorothy and to renew friendships.

Mr. and Mrs. Reese Dunsford and Miss Sue Brock enjoyed a holiday in Florida recently.

'Nanny' to over 600 children

A funeral service was held in Midland on Wednesday for the late Agnes Bates, who was known as Nanny to over 600 children between 1923 and 1962.

The resident of the Villa Nursing Home, formerly of 90 Fourth St., Midland, was 100.
