

Rotarians to converge on Metro, June 5-8 74th world convention

From about 100 nations

Rotarians from this area will be among more than 15,000 from about 100 nations at Rotary International's 74th world convention in Toronto June 5 to 8. They are some of the 25,000 Canadians in 506 clubs in every province among 911,000 members in 157 nations around the world.

Plenary sessions will jam Maple Leaf Gardens and visitors will stay in 22 Metro area hotels plus space in surrounding areas including members' boats sailed to Toronto for the purpose. One evening, hospitality is planned for 6,000 visitors in 1,500 area homes.

Organizing the logistics has been a two-year job for Canadian Rotarians led by conference chairman Tibor Gregor, executive director of the Canadian Soft Drink Association; a blue chip committee from the host Toronto Club headed by real estate executive Raymond Bosley; and Rotary's world staff at Evanston, Illinois.

Rotary all began in 1905 when Paul Harris, a young lawyer in Chicago organized after-hours meetings in members' offices. It was from the rotation of meeting places that the name Rotary emerged.
