

Big League Banter

Rod Carew of the Angels regained his lead in the American League batting race last Friday...He was leading Wade Boggs of Boston by .372 to .370, but didn't last long...Boggs went 11-for-20 in four weekend games with K.C. to re-take the lead...Bill "Mad Dog" Madlock of Pittsburgh, who is trying to win his fourth National League title, leads his league with a .330 average...Cecil Cooper of the Brewers is the first player in the Majors with 100 rbi's, hitting the century mark Saturday against Toronto...Andre Dawson of the Expos leads the N.L. in rbi's with 87, and hits with 142 going into this week...Boggs leads the A.L. in hits with 164 after Sunday...Chicago White Sox are making progress this year, and their pitching staff deserves much of the credit...Lamar Hoyt of the Sox is tied with Baltimore's Scott MacGregor for the league lead in wins with 15...Although Atlanta lost 2-out-of-3 with Los Angeles on the weekend, they still lead the Dodgers by five-and-a-half games in the N.L. West division...Lloyd "shaker" Moseby of the Blue Jays is hitting over .350 during his current 20-game hit streak...For their hitting prowess over the years, Pittsburgh Pirates have got the nickname, "The Pittsburgh Lumber Company", and this year's edition is no different, especially over the last month or so...Over 135,000 fans saw the four-game weekend series with the Brewers in Toronto... That's the largest attendance for any series in Jay history, and the crowd put the team's attendance almost half a million ahead of last year's...Watch out for Houston Astros in the N.L. West...They are third now, within three games of the Dodgers in second...If you want to pick a team that could come from behind to win a divisional title, pick California Angels if Reggie gets hot- if not- so what!...This week's "Name of the Week" award goes to someone without a name...Kansas City shortstop U.L. Washington only his initials, they don't stand for any names...That's it for now - See ya later!
