

On Friday, November 18, Midland Times, Penetanguishene Citizen's newest publication-THE WEEKENDER-will arrive on the doorsteps of thousands of homes in the North Simcoe area.

 These are the great people who work behind the scenes at The Citizen Times Weekender. They're a real family. It's this kind of team effort needed to make a paper such as The Weekender really click: 1) Jim Robb, 2) Jessie Crowe, 3) Elke Naumann, 4) Carol Dimock, 5) Joe Harpell, 6) Randy Butineau, 7) Linda Ladd, 8) Liesje Perry, 9) June Robbins, 10) Diane Moore.

Randy Butineau

Our resident jock, Randy Butineau, was born and raised in Midland.

He attended Msgr. Castex School, St. Theresa's High School and graduated from Georgian College's School of Journalism.

Randy is the sports editor of this newspaper and when he's not covering it he's playing it: hockey, volleyball, baseball, biking, jogging.

His column will appear in the Weekender every Friday. Look for it.

June Robbins

June Robbins has been with The Midland Times, answering the telephone and helping customers at the front counter for the past nine years. June wears a number of hats and without her we'd be in a bind.

She directs circulation, looks after our classified advertising department and literally wears a path in the carpet between the counter and her desk.

A long time resident of the area, June lives near Penetanguishene's south entrance where famed angels are located.

Yes, we'd be in quite a pickie without June juggling all of her duties...which by the way she does with a great deal of zeal and professionalism.

Diane Moore

Diane Moore, bookkeeper and in charge of accounts, is the voice on the telephone, and the figure behind the counter, in the Main Street office of The Penetanguishene Citizen. A graduate of Midland Secondary School and a resident of Midland, Diane, 21, is the person who answers questions that no one else in the office understands.
