New plates for Canada Post 48-cent stamp

The 48-cent definitive stamp featuring a cradle, first issued last April as part of a series of three medium-value stamps depicting heritage artifacts, underwent a second printing and reissued Dec. 19.

The stamp sheets, printed on Clark Paper International Ltd. stock, bear a "Plate No. 2" marginal inscription. The original printing did not carry a plate number.

Last August, the Queen Elizabeth II and Maple Leaf definitives were reprinted on Harrison and Sons Ltd. paper and carried

"Plate No. 2" inscriptions. New plates were made for all three definitives to indicate the paper change.

The bas-relief sculpture of the Queen first appeared on the stamp issued March 1, 1977, to mark the Silver Jubilee of Her Majesty's accession to the throne.

The now familiar maple leaf design was first used on the "A" stamp.
