

Sharelife's eighth campaign is set at $6.1 million

Sharelife's eighth campaign beginning April 1, among 200 parishes of the Archdiocese of Toronto, has a goal of $6.175 million for the education of priests, and the needs of Catholic Charities as well as those of the Third World.

His Eminence

G. Emmett Cardinal Carter introduced the campaign saying:

"Through ShareLife we publicly evidence our continuing Catholic insistence that life itself is unique and precious; that life-depriving values directly contradict our faith... We remind ourselves that Jesus identified His sacrifice with the sufferings of the sick, with the struggles of the poor and with our call to be one with them."

His Eminence also introduced Mrs. Rita Reed as this year's Parish Campaign

Chairman, the first woman to hold the position. Mrs. Reed of St. Joseph's Parish, Streetsville, has held ShareLife positions at the parish, regional and Archdiocesan levels. "I'm confident that our parishioners will respond to the needs of ShareLife recipients, as they always have, with joyful generosity. Our clergy and lay leaders are enthused about the campaign and its traditional call to Lenten almsgiving, especially as shown by the 1984 poster."

The poster and campaign brochure cover show a three dimensional, cross-shaped 'window' looking towards the hills of Calvary, with a modern version of the Good Samaritan in the foreground. The paper sculpture was created by Jonathan Milne.

"In order to meet our parish objective," said

Mrs. Reed, "ShareLife will be successful if donors contribute an extra $5 for every $50 they gave last year. I believe the efforts of tens of thousands of volunteers will meet this challenge."

ShareLife Sunday is April 1.
