Scene of nightmare

Saturday, Ontario Provincial Police officers look over hellish scene left behind by a tornado that cut across the south end of Barrie late Friday afternoon. Building in the middle of the photo with cement walkway leading up to it was a school, vacated by students just half an hour before the tornado struck. Building to the left of it housed an Armed Forces command centre and relief centre for residents of the Allandale area of the city ravaged by the tornado. It was virtually undamaged.
