

Top North American artists are to gather in Durham...

Eighteen top artists from across North America will gather in the town of Durham, in the Grey Bruce region of Ontario on August 24 and 25.

Many of these artists have received awards and achieved international acclaim.

Gregory Perillo will travel from New York to show his moving portraits of the early American Indians.

Joan Healey, an Edmonton artist, has painted the Canadian child's dream of playing hockey, in her work.

Glen Loates hailed as one of Canada's premier wildlife artists, will be coming to Durham from his Maple, Ontario home. James Keirstead, from Kingston, is well-known for his contemporary landscapes executed with his unique knife-painting style.

Robert Bourgeault is coming from his home near Detroit to exhibit his paintings of English country cottages. Toronto-based artist and illustrator Stewart Sherwood will attend. He has created numerous covers for McLean's magazine as well as fine art for galleries.

Other top artists who will attend include Derk Hansen from Minnesota, Tammy Laye, from Ilderton, Ontario, Lowell Davis from Missouri and Peter Etril Snyder from Waterloo.

The event which has drawn this impressive group together in Durham is the upcoming Canadian Collectables Show and Sale. Limited edition artwork designed by the attending artists will be on view and for sale and will include lithographs and original paintings, collector plates, figurines and other fine collectables.

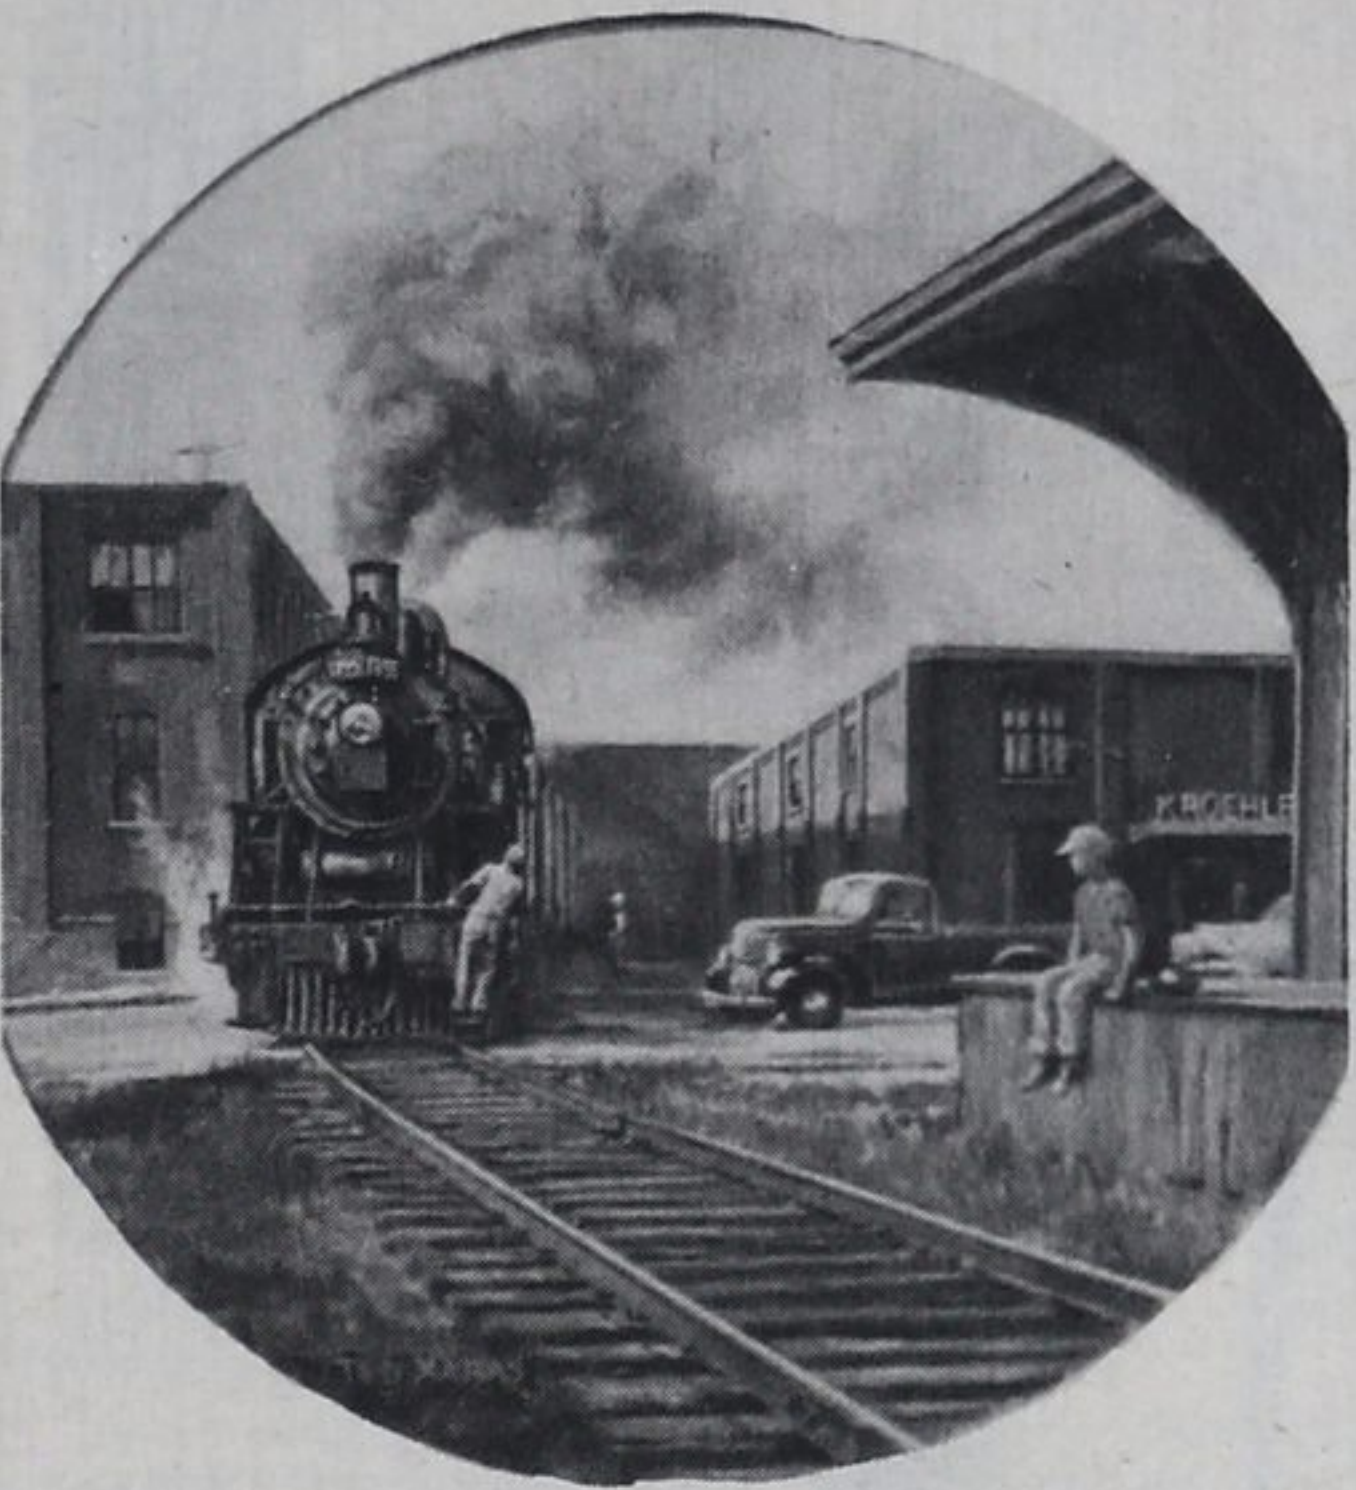

Last year this art event drew approximately 5,000 people. Once again this year the artists will be available to discuss their work with the public and to sign their collectables.

A unique feature of the show will be the introduction of a limited edition porcelain plate featuring the locally renowned Kroehler furniture factory showing a historical view of this Durham area landmark.

The artwork for "Furniture for the Nation," second issue in a series, has been created by leading train artist, Ted Xaras who will also be in Durham. Works by Xaras have been collected throughout Canada and the United States and he has also designed

"Tomorrow's Memories" the first issue in the series of limited edition plates which celebrates the history of the railway in Durham.

Motor Sports tune up for provincial championships

In the Penetang-Midland Ball Hockey Playoffs, the Ontario Championship-bound Performance Motor Sports won their series against John Desroches Construction Limited by virtue of a fourth game 9-2 victory in the best of seven set. Performance displayed their scoring depth by registering eight marksmen. Tom Hook tallied twice with singles going to Mark Gieseler, Pat Brodeur, Kirk Swales, Peter, Jeff, Chris and Dave Wright. Martial Robitaille and Jack Mischpeter replied for Desroches.

In the other series, Stoneleigh Pontiacs edged S: Charlebois Haulage 3-2 on Thursday night. John Dorion, Keith Moreau, and John Walter lit the scoreboard for Stoneleigh as Brian St. Amant and Norman Zwicker tallied for Charlebois.

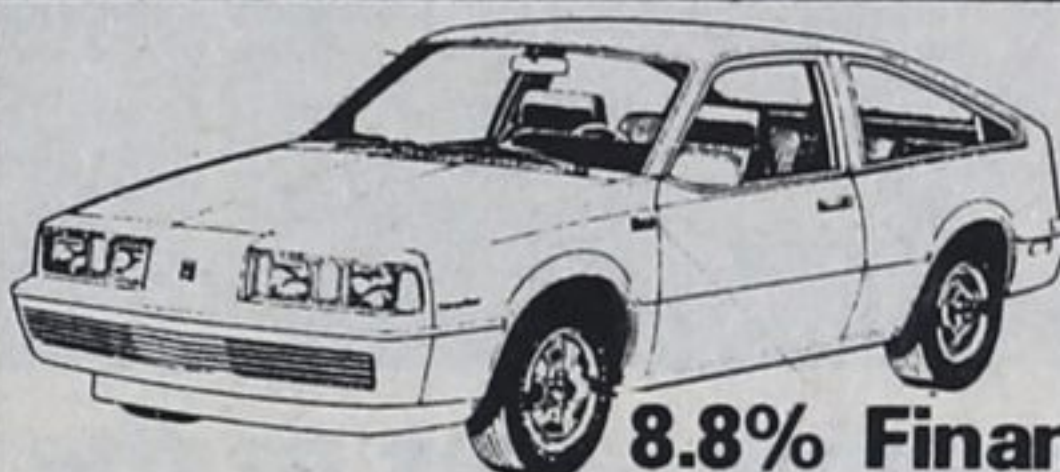

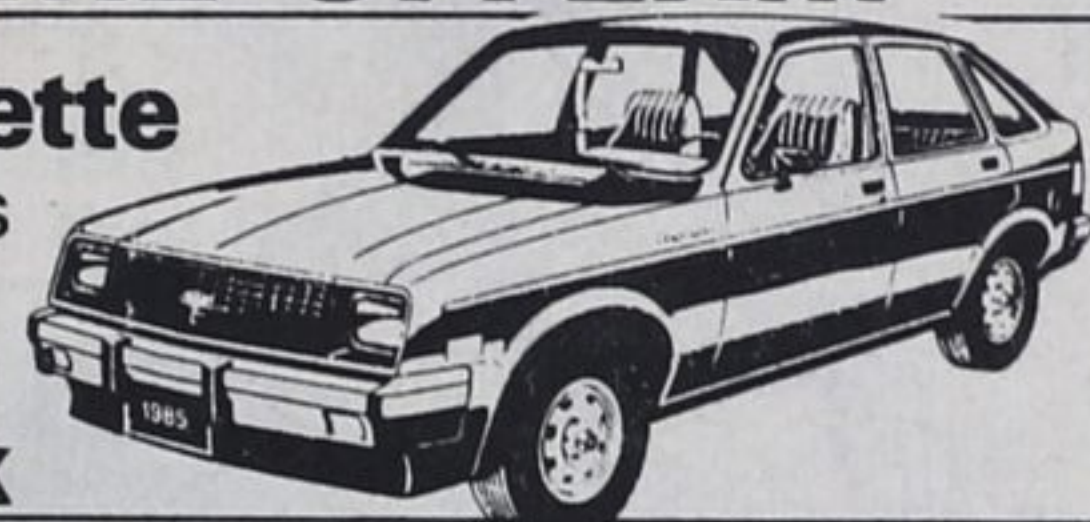

The two teams were back at it on Sunday, and had to go to overtime to settle it.
