Cool temperatures herald the end of summer 1985

Temperatures for the third night in a row dipped to well below 42F on the old scale, a reminder that summer is over for another year and the leaves will soon be changing their colours.

Suit yourself with fall fashions

by PAUL SANDERSON

Autumn fashions made their first appearance in local clothing stores as early as June. Now the seasonal metamorphosis is virtually complete, but the overall look is not as dramatically different as one might expect.

In years gone by, heavier, darker fabrics featured a more serious mood in Fall fashions. Today the colours on the racks, in The Parlor men's clothing shop on Midland's King Street, are as bright and varied as those of the Spring and Summer just past.

According to salesclerk Charlotte Innes, from Here's Look'n Atcha ladies' fashions next door, designers have responded to the popularity of individual colour coordination for fashion and makeup. Women will feel comfortable this fall, she says, matching a wide range of available fashion options to compliment their own personality.

Colour, femininity, and fun appear to be the inspiration behind this season's classic styles, that most anyone can wear. Innes has noticed primarily fabrics and colours generating most of the current ladies' fashion interest.

Men, too, are choosing from a wider range of popular fashions, with each change of season, says the Parlor's Bob Voorzanger. The traditional argyle pattern sweater for example, "has gone the way of the dinosaur," he claims, to be replaced in his store with a new spectrum of bold and colourful geometric designs.

With an ever broadening choice available to men, when shopping for clothes, Voorzanger suggests keeping the following basic principles in mind. It's good advice to buy clothes that can readily be added to, for a new look, he says, and always try to buy clothes that will last, in terms of durability, style, and the pleasure you get from wearing them.
