

ers Day termed 'amazing'

possible to organize another similar day.

Many session leaders remarked on the fact that there was a need for more such activities because students are not always aware of the particular demands of a certain career and, also, there is a need for schools and the work place to work more closely together.

"The message that came across most clearly throughout the day", said Chartrand, "was that no matter what career you choose, the prerequisites for success are an honest effort, good work habits and, preferably, a high school diploma."

"It's funny", added Chartrand, "that teachers tell their students the same thing but when it comes from people actually working in a particular field, it seems to carry much more weight with the students; but that's OK as long as they get the message." He went on to say that, although this particular Career Day formula takes a little more time to organize (about two months) than the usual "booths set up in the gym free for all," the extremely positive feedback from students, staff and session leaders indicates that this is the way to go for future Career Days.

"All in all, it was a super day", Chartrand said.

"The students and staff at Ecole Secondaire Le Caron would like to thank the following people for accepting to be session leaders and for taking valuable time from a busy schedule:

Catherine French (Alan Martin Associates, Penetang); Guy

Johnstone (Johnstone's Music Land, Midland); Craig Elson (Midland Free Press, Midland); Monica Hofer (Dr. R. Stubbins, Penetang); Patrice Forget (P.F. Forget Construction, Lafontaine); Lena Belcourt (Vincent's Hair Design, Penetang); Martin McNamara (Simcoe County District Health Unit, Midland); Robert MacKinnon (MacKinnon, DeVillers, Peet and Horton, Penetang); Horst Bafort (TRW engineering department, Midland); Cora Miller (TRW, Midland); David Brooks (OHMC community services team, Penetang); Herb Mellish (Ontario land surveyor, Penetang); Vic Dowling (Chiropractor, Penetang); Gilbert Lesperance (Huron Scanlon, Penetang); and all the others who helped to make our Career Day a very successful day."

'What are you staring at?'

Labrador Retriever Bo, for 11 years a popular "dog-about-town", awoke from a Friday morning nap to discover half his black coat, and most of Midland, covered in several centimetres of snow.

Christmas charity

ANY PERSON who owns a new Bell telephone book, will be familiar with Budd Watson's photographic vision of Georgian Bay.

His red-hued panoramic portrait of the sun setting on Georgian Bay's famous stunted pines and bald rock islands, extends across both covers.

This Saturday, the internationally renowned photographer will narrate a special slide presentation of his dramatic, Georgian Bay colour, landscapes.

A musical back ground has been prepared to accompany the unique program, at 8 p.m., in Barrie's Georgian College Theatre.

The $7.50 tickets, available at the Gingham Door, 15 Dunlop St., Barrie, include refreshments, and all proceeds from the evening will go in aid of The Foster Children's Christmas.

What a wonderful gesture.

Making history

THE ELECTION of a majority of members to the Simcoe County Board of Education of the female gender is certainly of interest inasmuch as 12 of the 21 members of the SCBE who will be taking office next month will be women.

Three years ago the new board was composed of 10 women and 11 men.

It is safe to say, substantial change will be recorded in this county's politics when a significant number of members of provincial legislatures and Parliament are comprised of women.

Yet to come are women who are willing to run for the leadership of their provincial or federal political parties.

But that day surely isn't that far off either.
