Three trips to go this season

The Beechglen, unloading grain on the weekend into Sunnyside's Maple Leaf Mills elevator, may have been the first ship into Midland harbour last spring, but these four seamen expect at least three more trips to Thunder Bay for a cargo of wheat before they return to their native Newfoundland
