Contract mediation continues for Simcoe Health Unit nurses

According to the Ministry of Health's own 1984 guidelines, the County of Simcoe is functioning with 22 fewer health unit nurses than required to provide adequate health care services to the members of the community.

Currently, six community health nurses, plus an RN (registered nurse) and an RNA (registered nursing assistant), work from the Midland Branch of the Simcoe County District Health Unit, on the grounds of Huronia District Hospital.

"Once again the Ontario Nurses' Association finds itself in the position of questioning the ministry's real commitment to providing both adequate nursing staff and funds to maintain healthy conditions within many of the province's communities," says Rose Briscoe, president of the 42,000 member Ontario Nurses' Association.

"Not only is the health unit asked to function with too few health unit nurses but it is currently attempting to maintain services while being almost $3.00 per capita under the provincial budget average for central east Ontario. As far as the Association is concerned, the people of Simcoe County are being drastically short changed," says Mrs. Briscoe.

Although the 75 health unit nurses have been in a legal strike position since Oct. 21, they hope to reach a fair and equitable settlement at mediation.

"The Association is attempting to attain salary parity with hospital nurses which would mean an average salary increase of $1.56 per hour for the health unit nurses. The Association has successfully negotiated hourly parity for several other Ontario health units, so we know this is not an unattainable goal", says Mrs. Briscoe. While hospital nurses must achieve RN accreditation, community health nurses must satisfy the additional requirement of a one year university diploma or a BScN (Bachelor of Science in Nursing) degree.

Orillia and Midland Health Unit Nursing Supervisor Leanore Wiancko credits her,

"excellent staff", with a, "calm and detached", attitude during these negotiations. However, the official parties are scheduled to return to the bargaining table Monday, Nov. 25.

Follow the bouncing ball

Midland Commodore's Rick Presse fights off four Stayner Mistics in Georgian Bay Men's Basketball League action at MSS gym, for control of the ball.

Misticks are the League's defending champions. Commodores were soundly trounced 96-53 in this contest which took place last Thursday.
