Who gave you your start?

Every business person knows there are some skills you can only develop on the job.

We were all new to it at one time.

Young people want to work. But it's often difficult to get that start.

FUTURES, a new program sponsored by the Ontario Ministry of Skills Development, gives young people four months of on-the-job experience with local businesses. There is no cost to the employer. FUTURES pays the trainee's wages and, in exchange, the employer must provide meaningful training. Almost any kind of work qualifies, as long as the trainee is not taking it away from a regular employee.

It's a mutually beneficial arrangement -- you give a young person a hand, and he or she gives you one. We have applicants waiting for immediate placement in your community.
