

Hillsdale blacksmith at Ste. Marie

The man who crafted a gift for Princess Diana's first-born is among the artists participating in the arts and crafts show and sale which marks the opening weekend of Sainte-Marie among the Hurons near Midland.

Blacksmith Don Pell of Hillsdale's Trillium Studios made the runners for a sleigh which was presented to Princess Diana and Prince Charles to commemorate the birth of their first child Mr. Pell will be one of 14 arts and crafts persons participating in the third annual Sainte-Marie opening show.

Organizer Nancy Mosley

explains: "The fascinating thing about this show is that everyone who is exhibiting is able to tie his or her craft with the site. Each art can be traced to the time of Sainte-Marie, or beyond."

Exhibitors include Agnes Vogt who makes beautiful decorations with dried weeds and flowers; clockmaker Gilles Belanger; weaver John McCallum; wood chipper Walter Kubasta; woodworker John Mosley and the president of the Ontario Angora Association, Candace Carter of Thornhill.

The craft show runs Saturday and Sunday May 17 and 18 from 10 a.m. to 5:15 each day.

As well as the arts and crafts event, opening day at Sainte-Marie features a display of original paintings by Ivan Kocsis, whose depictions of native life in aboriginal settings have won him acclaim.

Sainte-Marie's staff of costumed interpreters and uniformed guides has completed an intensive two-week training and orientation course, and opening day visitors to the famous site can expect to experience 17th century living history at its finest.

Sainte-Marie's sister site, the Historic Naval and Military Establishments in Penetanguishene also opens for the new season on May 17.
