

Dear MSS student parent

Dear Midland Secondary School student Parent:

The extracurricular activities of a high school play a very big part in the life of a student. Midland Secondary School is fortunate to have the volunteers from their staff to offer the student a wide variety of programs.

We would like you, the parent, to be aware of this program and help your son or daughter choose the activities that will best suit him or her to further develop his or her skills.

Extra attraction

Doug Woods was one of the people who helped the five Martels entertain 1,200 enthusiastic fans of 1950s rock and roll, during the seventh annual Teen Town reunion, held last Saturday in Centennial Arena. The Martels were the main attraction, especially for those in the crowd of 1,200 who danced to their music in the 1950s.

Best model maker

Hard work and artistic talent were rewarded Aug. 23 when the following contestants collected trophies and cash prizes in Henry's Hobbies Model Building Contest.

Junior Division, first, Eric Vanden Heuvel; second, Kevin Lunnie; third, Peter Vipavec.

Senior Division, first, John Fieldhouse; second, Dean Godin; third, Perry Rittershofer.

Shoppers in Huronia Mall enjoyed a colourful display of about 20 models that included hot rods, planes, and military equipment. General appearance, assembly, finish, and age of the contestant were determining factors in judging entries. Complete contest results are posted in Henry's Hobbies, Huronia Mall.

Fair extras

This year's Midland Fall Fair is occupying the Midland Curling Club as well as Centennial Arena and the surrounding grounds.

The Curling Club will be the location for school exhibits, arts and crafts, and educational displays, Sept. 11 through Sept. 14.

The Fair will open without a financial benefit from the Tiny and Tay Agricultural Society bringing The Tommy Hunter Show to Midland.

The Society lost money. The second of two performances was not as well attended as the first performance.

Fair insured

This year's Midland Fall Fair is proceeding with insurance that cost the Tiny and Tay Agricultural Society $1,000. The previous year's insurance cost the society $630.

Earlier this year, insurers were responding to their rapidly rising costs by raising rates steeply, or declining to offer insurance.

Exhibitors at the Midland Fall Fair, for the first time, will be asked to sign disclaimers absolving the Fair of any responsibility in the case of accident.

Air Cadets training again

The Midland Lions Air Cadet Squadron will hold its first regular training night on Sept. 10, at 7 p.m., in the Midland Civic Centre. Air Cadets offers young people the chance to participate in many exciting activities, such as flying, camping, canoeing, parades and tours, organizers say. The program is open to all young people between the age of 13 and 19. Uniforms are provided. There is no membership fee. For more information, contact Captain Craig Hawkins, the commanding officer of 724 Squadron (526-2194).
