

Penetang school report

The school year has started off well with the new semester system in full swing. Everyone seems to be adapting well to the situation and enjoying it also.

The Students Council with Jennifer D'Aoust as President, Stephanie Greenfield as Vice President, Mike Morrison as Social Convenor, Susan DesRochers acting as Secretary and David Forget as Treasurer are doing an excellent job in welcoming everybody back for another school year.

The basketball, football, and volleyball season has started and it looks like a promising year ahead. Junior Achievement has already begun courses to teach eager students how to run a business.

On September twelfth twenty-nine honour students set out for Bark Lake to enjoy such things as sailing, windsurfing, hiking and leadership training. According to Mr.

Battricks "the trip went very well."

Last Wednesday many students over the age of seventeen went to the Midland Civic Centre to give blood to the Red Cross which held their third blood donor clinic of the year.

That just about raps it up for this week and I would just like to welcome all the new students and teachers to E.S.P.S.S. and wish everyone the best of luck in the 1986-87 school year.

Fashionable success

Kettle Creek Canvas Co. became a nationwide success in just over eight years. Owner and founder of the company, Mellanie Stephens, right made a trip to the Midland store last Friday to talk with owner of the local outlet, Jane McLarney. Kettle Creek Canvas Co. has been made popular by the canvas bag they make, but is also experiencing popularity in its line of casual clothing.

Obituary
