

Ebenezer church 100th anniversary service

At its centennial anniversary celebrations on Sunday, Ebenezer United Church invited a former moderator of the United Church in Canada (UCC) to its pulpit.

Clarke MacDonald told the congregation of about 110, that if what the UCC is doing doesn't matter to Ebenezer, then it doesn't matter at all.

"If the church is doing something to help Ebenezer, then it's doing the right thing," Mac-Donald said.

MacDonald spoke on Ephesians 1, which he said is the most succinct description of what the church should be.

"They (the Ephesian church) had congregations of people who prayed, believed, hoped and worked," he said. "That's what kept the church alive then, and that's what keeps the church alive today."

Simcoe East's Member of Provincial Parliament, Allan McLean, told the church that it is still a very important part of the community.

"It's amazing what can be done when a lot of people get together," he said.

"When we consider all that is created, all that matters is people. It (the church) is still the cornerstone of the community."

Tay Township Reeve Bruce Tinney also encouraged the group by saying it set an example for other churches to follow. He also presented the parish with a plate with the county emblem on it.

Reverend Wes Oaks is the minister of the 100-year-old church started by Thomas and Ellen MacDowell.

At its general meeting October 7, the membership approved a $1500 donation to the Community Pipes and Drums Band.

The next-biggest beneficiary of the Legion is the Penetanguishene Library Board. They'll receive $500.

Penetanguishene's Angel Fund, which is still trying to raise the money to fix the Angels, is receiving $300.

Other organizations which will be receiving $300 from the Legion are the Ontario March of Dimes, the Arthritis Society and the Canadian Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Money-raising time will be beginning once again at the Legion. The Legion's Poppy Fund will get underway in time for Remembrance Day, November 11.

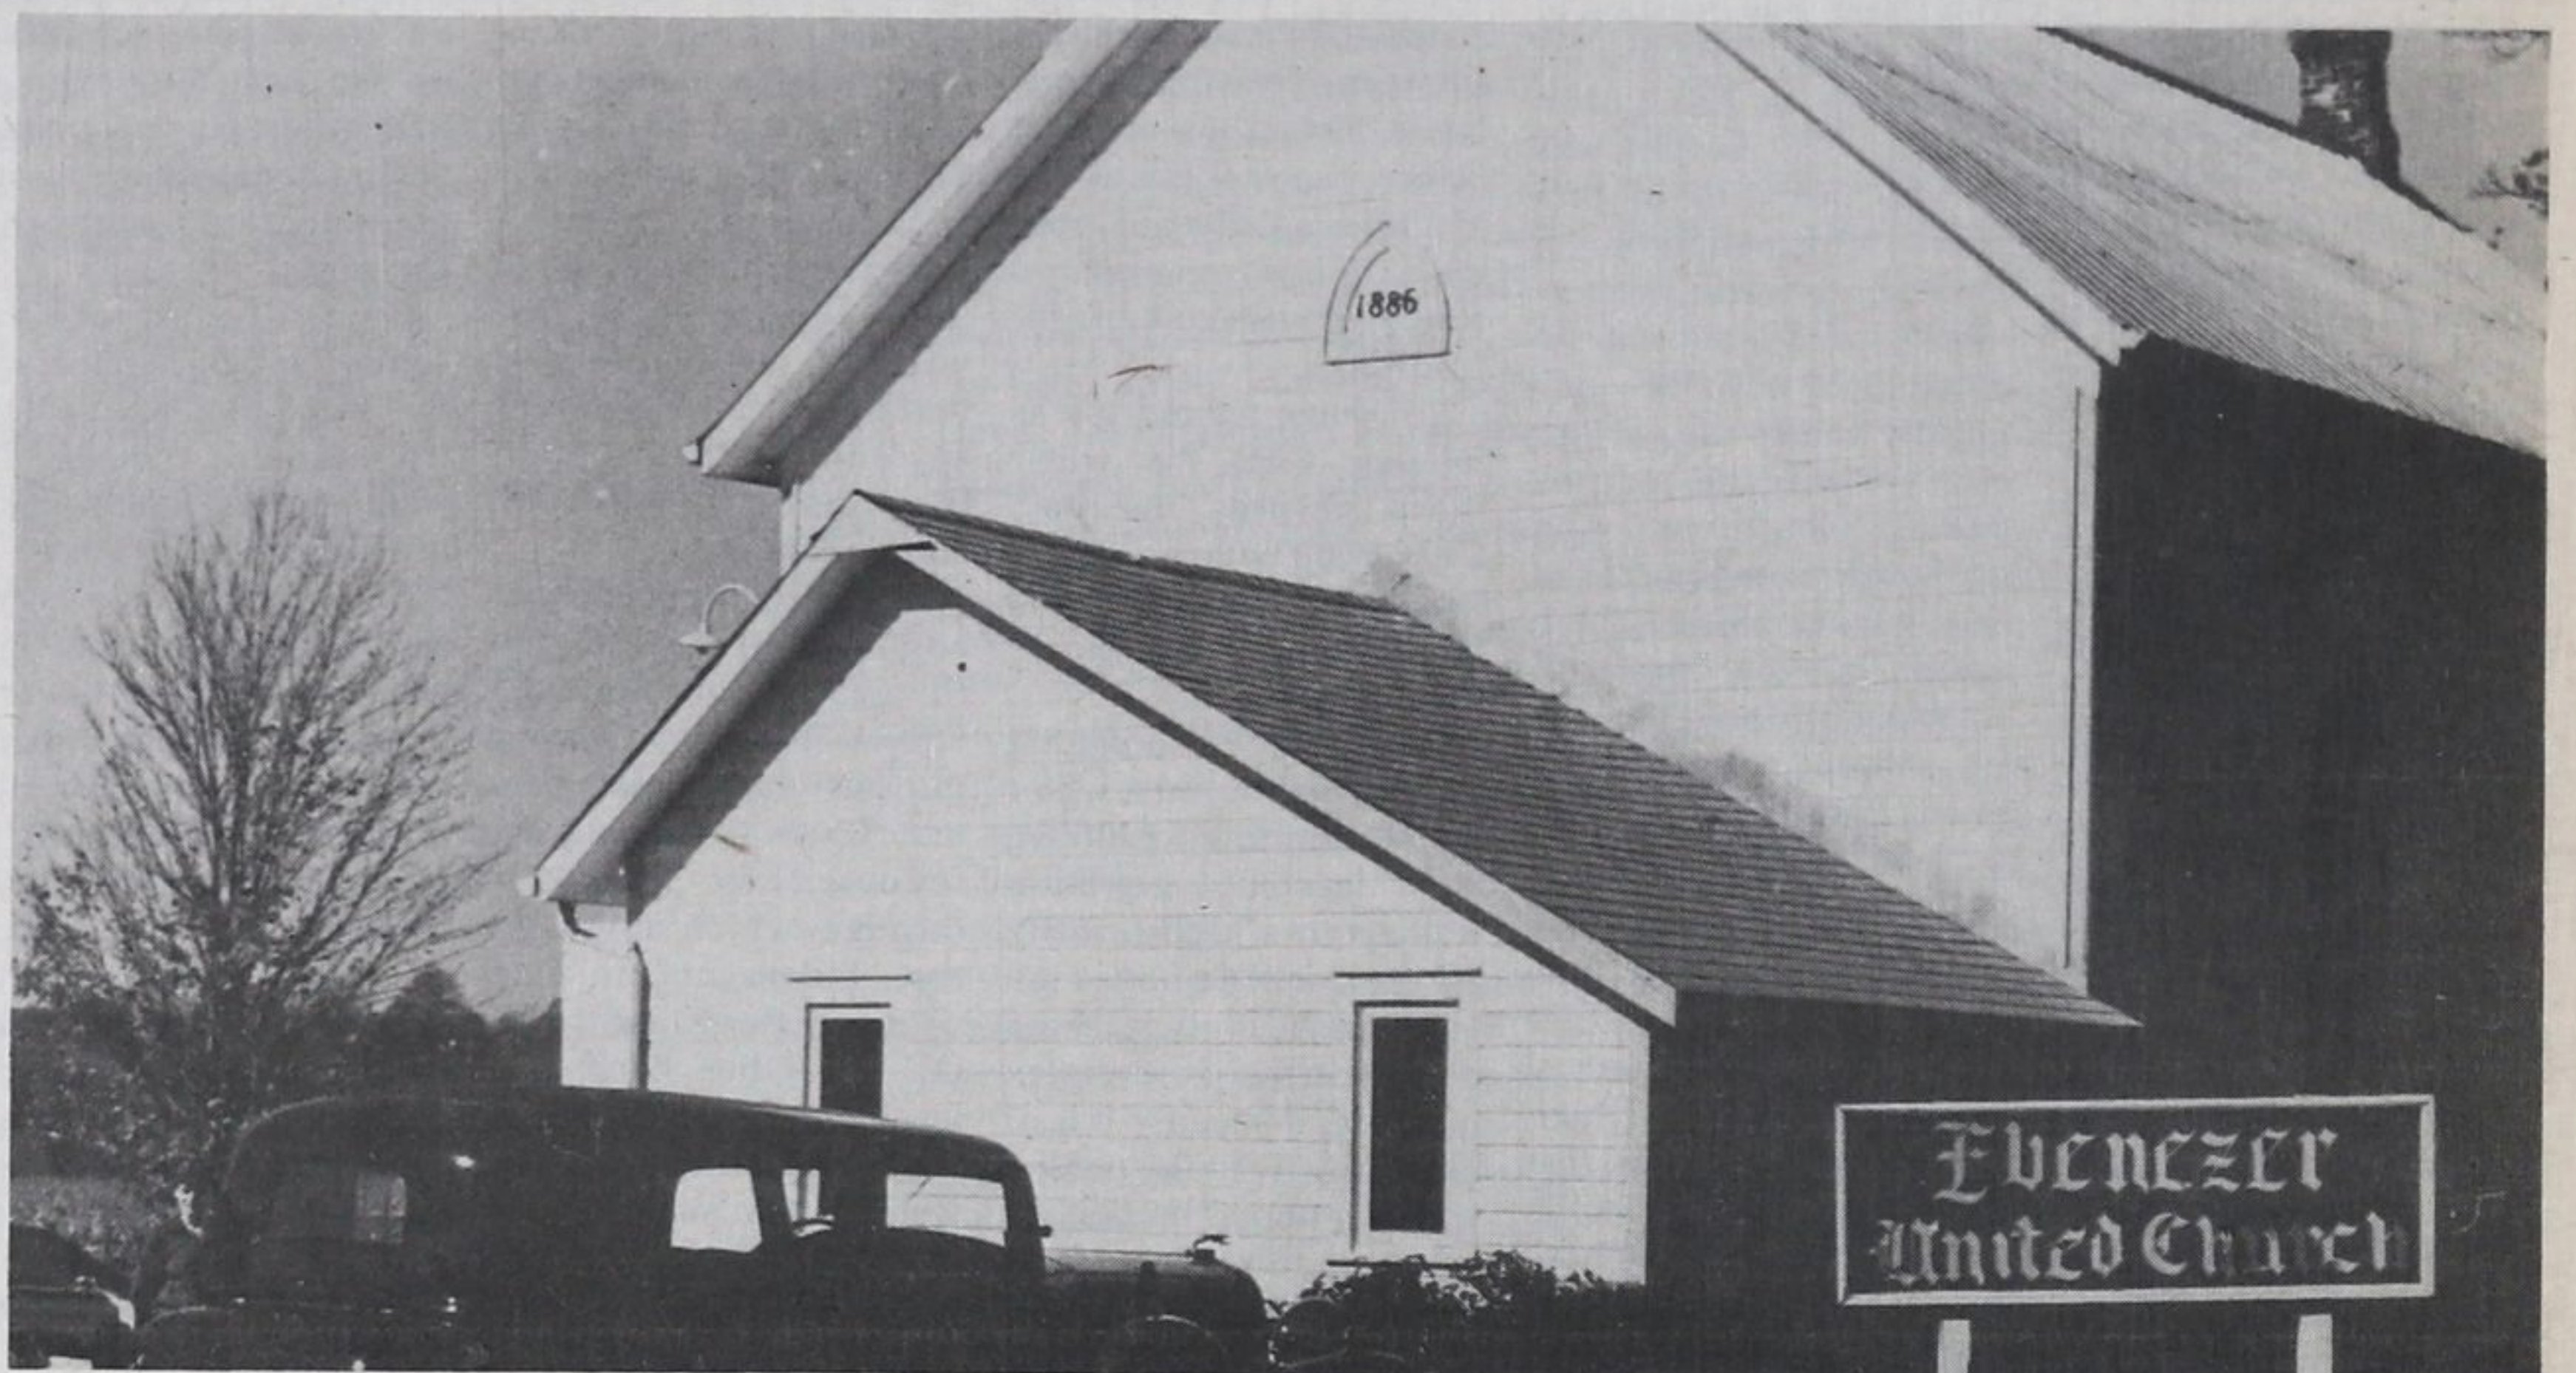

Ebenezer 4H Club meet

The first meeting of the club's "Milk Makes It" project was held on Sept. 29 with six members in attendance. Once again, the leaders are Sharon Whitehead and Linda Marchant. The group discussed the importance of calcium in our diets and osteoporosis. Officers were also elected. Krista Crawford is president, Vice-president is Kim Widdes, Secretary and rotating Treasurer is Patsy Marchant, and press reporter is Angela Bowers.

The second session was held Oct. 8 with all members attending. The girls discussed the different faces of milk ie:

whole, partly skimmed, skimmed, chocolate, Goats milk, evaporated, powdered, condensed and U.H.T. milk. They decided to call themselves the Ebenezer II Dairy Queens. The group ended their meeting by creating their own exotic milkshake.

The third meeting was again held at Linda Marchant's on Oct. 15. The 4-H'ers learned how to buy, store and cook with cheese. Since a parent had been invited to attend this meeting also, they ended by sampling over 15 kinds of cheeses - some familiar and some new ones such as Brie, Feta, Blue and Gouda.

Glancing back

Ebenezer United Church celebrated its 100th anniversary Sunday. It paid its respects to the past and expressed hopes to the future.

Membership up for Coldwater Bridge Club

by M. Peter Shaw
The Coldwater Bridge Club, in addition to having several of its players in competition for the Trent Valley Bridge Association's Ace of Clubs award, has just received notification that they have again complied with membership requirements, thus maintaining the club's top rating for issuance of points per table in play for the year 1987. The Club's teaching program which will soon be finished for this year will again ensure the club's top classification.

Players from the club are now winning points in various sectional and regional competitions. Ross and Sheila Hawkins, who were among Coldwater Club players attending the Hockley Valley Sectional, won first place in their event and repeated the win at the Can-Am event in Montreal a week ago.

Those members who cared to attend the regular club evening game at the Royal Canadian Legion on Thanksgiving Monday enjoyed a good game, with Les and Mary Bell sliding past Friedel and Peter Shaw for first place, 62.5 per cent to 60.5. Other scores were George Kingsborough, Dac Harris (59); Ross and Sheila Hawkins (49); Gus Salcevic, Helen Medveckis (45); Jim Hughes, John Dowling (41); Dot Harris, Rea Kingsborough (33.5). It is expected that some players from Coldwater will play at the Midland Bridge Club's opening game on Oct. 22. Big events in the future are an Olympic Fund game, a charity championship on Nov. 24, the ACBL-wide charity game in Midland on Dec. 2, and several Club championship games of various types. See you there.
