

NSWMA member supports ban on dump

Tiny Township could be forced to find a new location to dump their garbage if members of the North Simcoe Waste Management Association (NSWMA) agree to a proposal of one unknown member.

At next month's meeting, the 12 remaining members of the NSWMA could be faced with making a decision on whether to allow Tiny Township to continue using the Pauze dump or not.

At last Tuesday evening's meeting, a notice of motion was announced by NSWMA Chairman Lionel Dion calling for the representatives from the five remaining municipalities to deny access to the Perkinsfield Landfill site to Tiny Township.

Although the notice of motion was read by the chairman, the notice was submitted by an unidentified member around the table. According to Dion, because the legislation came in the form of a notice of motion a mover or seconder required and the identity of the originator is not disclosed.

The chairman explained at the next meeting if there are members who will move and second the motion then the association members will have to vote on it, but if there aren't any representatives who support the motion it will not go to the floor for a vote.

"At the next meeting it will be there as a motion, and if it comes back with a mover and a seconder then there will be some discussion," said Dion. "If not you won't hear anything more on the issue."

The first indication of such a proposal, to refuse Tiny Township access to the Pauze dump, being recommended came shortly after Tiny officials announced their withdrawal from the six-member organization.

Tiny Township council decided to withdraw from the association after an agreement could not be reached by the two sides on a possible location for a replacement dump for the Pauze site that is slated to be closed in October of next year. At the July meeting of the NSWMA, Tiny officials announced their pullout when the group's members refused to abandon a proposal to locate a new dump in the south end of Tiny Township and allow Township officials to continue single-handedly in the search for a new dump.

The municipality's officials are opposed to the association's proposal to use Site 41 (the Wayne Johnson farm), a parcel of land the Township's representatives are describing as "prime agricultural land", for the new dump.

Although one or two remaining members of the association have voiced their support to such a proposal, the chairman said it is very unlikely that such a proposal will get by the 12 members.

"I don't think anything will ever happen with this," said Dion. Despite the fact that the proposal has been put forth, the chairman said, at the present time it is unclear whether the association is in the legal position to make such a move against the Tiny council.

"Our legal staff and the staff in Mr. Picher's (the provincial mediator) office have not given us any indication either way," said Dion. "We don't know because the contract with Mr. Pauze specifies all the six municipalities."

Sewer problems to be fixed soon

After two years of searching the Ministry of the Environment (MOE) has finally put their finger on the causes for pure water leaking into the Village of Port McNicoll's sewage system.

According to village Clerk Ted Walker, Port McNicoll representatives were told at a meeting with MOE officials last Wednesday evening, the cause for the infiltration of water into the sewage is cracks in the mains, manholes and a number of illegal hook-ups to the village's system.

Walker said it is estimated it will cost the village and the MOE, under the sewer rehabilitation program, close to $15,000. The village's share will be 25 per cent.

The discovery of these problems will now open the way for complete servicing of the village. Presently, only two-thirds of Port is serviced by the sewer system, according to Walker.

Until the MOE found the problem, they would not give the go ahead to the village to complete the service because the province's sewage treatment plant could not handle taking any more sewage from the village, said Walker.

"The problem is the gallage of sewer (coming out of the village) is much higher than it should be because all this pure water is getting into the system," said Walker. "The MOE's plant could not have handled any more connections in Port McNicoll with the excess water in the system."

Once the problems of the cracks in the mains and the manholes and the illegal hook-ups are rectified, Walker said the village can go ahead and petition the government to allow the remainder of the village, which includes Paradise Point, to be serviced.

Although the MOE has found a number of illegal hook-ups in the system, Walker said the village officials have decided not to penalize the homeowners in these incidences.

"Many of these people don't realize they have illegal hook-ups," said Walker. "We will notify the individuals to fix the problem, but if we find any illegal hook-ups after that, then there will be charges laid under the MOE."

Although the MOE has found the problems in the village, only two-thirds of Port have been surveyed by ministry officials, said Walker. The remainder of the municipality should be examined by the end of the year.

Work to correct the existing problems that have already been discovered by the MOE will begin in the next few weeks in an effort to rectify the situation by the end of the year. Repairs to troubles that are found in the up-coming testing by the MOE will be made in the summer of 1987, according to Walker.

University day today

Today, area high school students will have a chance to shop around - for their life after high school.

Ecole Secondaire Penetanguishene Secondary School (ESPSS) is hosting the University Information Program, with representatives from Ontario's 16 universities and Ryerson Polytechnical Institute.

Students from Midland and Elmvale high schools will also be able to talk individually with the university reps to discover what each offers and how it would meet particular interests and needs.

University reps will be stressing more than the academics. Universities encourage students to take advantage of cultural, athletic and social activities both on-campus and in the host town.

Application forms, stating the student's top three choices, must be submitted to the Ontario Universities Application Centre by the end of January. Early admission offers are mailed out in June.
