Gord Teskey and Ted Symons have agreed to be the judges during the two-evening program.

Other lawyers acting either as prosecutors or defence lawyers for the 35 to 40 people who will face mock charges include: Kelly Larmand, Frank Grise, Ross Heacock, Peter Deacon, John Gignac, Craig Rice, Bill Taws, Martin Prost, Peter Mudry, Lynn Burgess, Rod Ferguson, Joe Blake, Bob McKinnon, and Christine Manners.

Midland Ontario Provincial Police officers will be acting as summons officers. The mock trials will take place in the Cable 12 television studio on a set which includes a cell for the "guilty." Viewers will be able to vote to put each person in jail or keep them out.

Some of the people who have volunteered to be accused of a crime related to their occupation, are John Bourgeois, Bud Lewis, Bryson McQuirter, Dean

Jail bird

Bruce Finlayson is only one of a number of local people who have agreed to be 'charged' with a crime and tried on Cable 6, next Monday and Tuesday. Finlayson was preparing himself last Friday, by getting used to being behind bars. The Midland Chamber of Commerce is organizing the event.
