Controversial cargo

The waferboard brought to Midland from Thunder Bay by water on the MV Woodland Marine was unloaded in Sunnyside. Residents and a majority of Town council members objected to the idea of the cargo ship docking on the south side of Midland harbour in a high residential area. The Woodland Marine is scheduled to bring another cargo this month.

Cargo ship is expected to return later this month

Cargo ship Woodland Marine is scheduled tentatively to return to Midland harbour on July 18.

The cargo ship brought its first load of cargo - waferboard - to Midland June 25 after a battle on town council between pro-business forces and some residents of William Street, who complained that if the company were allowed to dock at the foot of their street, trucks would disturb the neighbourhood and endanger children. After much discussion, the majority of council voted against allowing the ship to use the Midland harbour; instead, it docked across the bay at Maple Leaf Mills in Sunnyside.

The Woodland Marine is carrying a load of lumber to Windsor from Thunder Bay for MacMillan Bloedel and will be stopping in Midland. Woodlands Marine's local representative, Matt Parry, said he expects the second cargo load to Midland will be about the same in volume as the first.

Woodland Marine hopes to establish a flow of cargo in and out of Midland sufficient to make Midland a profitable, regular stop. The opposition of residents and a majority of town council members resulted in rejection of a Woodland Marine Inc. application to allow it to use land at the foot of William Street. The shipping company has an arrangement with Maple Leaf Mills, across the bay in Sunnyside.

Local hospitals stay out of insurance plan

Neither Huronia District Hospital nor Penetanguishene General Hospital are among the 49 Ontario hospitals which have banded together to create their own liability insurance plan.

Huronian District will consider seriously next year joining the hospitals-run insurance plan, administrator Gord Key said.

HDH is interested despite a slightly higher premium than HDH is paying now. HDH's insurance bill for fiscal 1986 was $50,000. Four years ago HDH paid $4,000 for insurance.

Under the hospitals' plan, the chance of a refund of 25 per cent of an annual premium, after four or five years, is 50 per cent, Key said.

The insurance plan created by the 49 hospitals is named Hospital Insurance Reciprocal of Ontario. It began operation on July 1. The participating hospitals represent 19,000 of the province's 27,000 hospital beds.

Public mischief

A Midland man has been charged with public mischief in connection with a report of a stolen car.

A 1977 Ford Thunderbird reported stolen to Midland police on June 30 was found by Elmvalle OPP in a ditch on July 1.

The owner of the car, Lucien Tasse of King Street, Midland, has been charged with public mischief. He will appear in provincial court on July 20.

Accidents last week

Midland OPP officers investigated 22 motor vehicle accidents in the week ending yesterday. In eight cases, personal injury resulted.

On July 4, on Lot 105-106 Side Road, Tiny Township,

Lisa Desroches, 17, of Perkinsfield, was the driver of a car which rolled. She was treated at Huronia District Hospital and released. She was not charged.

NSWMA legal bills up

The legal bills to the North Simcoe Waste Management Association in its court battle with Tiny Township have so far added up to $11,000.

Tiny is suing the NSWMA and attempting to block its search for a new garbage dump. On July 29, the fight will return to Supreme Court, where Tiny is seeking an interlocutory injunction. That would stop the NSWMA in its tracks.

NSWMA clerk Yvon Gagne said the legal costs will soon go up another $1,000 to $2,000 because of the involvement of an auditor and several trips by NSWMA officials to Toronto.
